FARM PRICE BILL VETOED BY PRESIDENT

Measure Is Called Threat to Government Stabilization Program.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2 — Calling inflationary and President Roosevelt the Bankhead bill farm prices by ex- payments in fig- farm parity price

the measure un- senate, Mr. Roose- a message:

pelled to this action conviction that this inflationary in char- breaks down the bar- ave erected and which maintain in order to the disasters of infla- is wholly inconsistent stabilization program and therefore, dangerous alike to constructive farm policy and our whole war effort."

Administration opponents of the bill which won easy victory in both house and senate, have estimated it would add approximately $1,500,000,000 to the nation's annual food bill.

Passed Senate Easily

It takes a two-thirds vote of both the house and senate to override the President and make a vetoed bill law. The Bankhead measure originally passed the senate by a vote of 78-2. The house showed a standing vote in its favor of 169 to 40.

Mr. Roosevelt contended the measure would go beyond the goal of parity income and give farmers "an unwarranted bonus at the expense of the consumer."

He said the farmer was substantially better off than in the last war but would not remain so if we set loose an inflationary tornado."

What he called the present relatively favorable position of American farmers, he said, can be held only if the general stabilization program succeeds, and thus will succeed "only if all groups except those on the very margin of subsistence are willing to recognize that for the duration they not only cannot expect to improve their living standards, but must indeed be willing to bear their fair share of the cost of stabilization."

Estimates Cost

Mr. Roosevelt estimated the bill might swell the cost of living more than 5 per cent and add more than $1,000,000,000 to the consumers' food budget and several hundred million dollars to the cost of feeding the armed forces and supplying our allies.

If by this bill the cost of basic foodstuffs is forced up, he said, and the national war labor board increases wages as a result, "no one can tell where increases will start or what those increased wages will ultimately cost the farmers and all people of the nation."

If food prices and wages rise, the Chief Executive continued, the cost of armaments, ships and planes necessarily would mount and the government would have to borrow even greater sums to meet the cost of the war.

Urging adherence to the stabilization program, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"I appeal to the considered judgment of the congress to reject the Bankhead bill which I am returning unsigned. It will not help the farmer with his immediate war difficulties. It will make infinitely harder for the farmer to protect himself from war-time chaos and post-war chaos. It will add to the burdens of those already heavily burdened. It will make the winning of the war more difficult and gravely imperil the chances of winning the peace.

"It is impossible, Mr. Roosevelt said, to control the cost of living unless all its vital elements are controlled. He said the time has come when everyone—farmers, workers, managers and investors—must realize that living standards cannot be improved in the midst of total war.

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., April 2—The trial of Lulu Sacksteder, 68, assistant secretary of the Citizens Building Association Co., on charges of abetting embezzlement will start April 12.

Prosecutor Robert C. Carpenter said Mrs. Sacksteder would be charged with seven indictments charging her as an accessory to Thomas J. Crobaugh, executive secretary, and his father and partner, Burton W. Crobaugh, in embezzlement of $400,000 of association funds.

Richard L. Cameron of Fostoria, who sentenced Clarence Crobaugh to a penitentiary term of from 3 to 30 years, will preside at the trial.

Dr. E. C. Bain, Former Marion Resident Famed As Scientist, Named To High Steel Co. Post

DR. EDGAR C. BAIN

Appointed Vice President of Carnegie-Illinois in Charge of Research.

Dr. Edgar C. Bain of Pittsburgh, Pa., a former Marion resident and nationally known metallurgist, has been appointed a vice president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp., in charge of research and technology, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Announcement of the appointment was made today by J. L. Perry, president of the corporation. It is a new post, created, Mr. Perry said, to intensify these activities of the company.

Dr. Bain is the son of Mrs. Milton H. Bain and the late Mr. Bain who formerly lived at 1185 East Center street. Mrs. Bain now makes her home with her son and family.

Dr. Bain joined the research staff of the United States Steel Corp. in 1928 and in recent years has been assistant to the vice president in charge of research and technology for the United States Steel Corp. of Delaware, a subsidiary.

His Special Fields

The new vice president is best known among metallurgists for his studies of stainless steel, the hardening of steel and the influence of the various alloys upon the properties of modern constructional steels. He is the recipient of several medals for outstanding educational work in the field, including the American Iron & Steel Institute medal.

The appointment of Dr. Bain as head of Carnegie-Illinois research and technological staff came 10 days after the corporation was charged by the senate Truman investigating committee with instances of faking of analyses of the quality and strength of steel produced for government war work in its Irvin plant. At the hearings President Perry asserted the higher management of Carnegie-Illinois as well as of the parent company knew nothing of the faulty material and had taken immediate steps to correct the situation.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the parent company, told the committee United States Steel was "as shocked and desirous of a correction of the situation as you are," and that he planned "to clean house, let the chips fall where they may."

Award at O. S. U.

In May 1937 Dr. Bain was one of two men selected to receive the Benjamin G. Lamme medal at Ohio State university for outstanding achievement in engineering. At that time he was assistant to the vice president of the United States Steel Corp. in charge of metallurgy and research. He previously had been awarded the Robert W. Hunt gold medal, the Henry Marion Howe gold medal, the American Iron & Steel Institute medal and the honorary degree of doctor of engineering by Lehigh university, and also had received three degrees from Ohio State university.

Native of Marion

Dr. Bain was born in Marion Sept. 14, 1891 and was graduated in 1908 from Marion High school where he showed sufficiently great interest in chemistry to obtain for himself special laboratory privileges. A summer course at Ohio Wesleyan university prepared him for admission to Ohio State university in 1909 as a chemical engineering student. He received his bachelor's degree in chemical engineering in 1912.

Did Government Work

Dr. Bain's first work was as a chemist in the water resources branch of the United States geological survey. Later he transferred to the United States bureau of standards at Washington for two years and left this work to return to Ohio State university to work toward the master's degree, majoring in chemical engineering and serving as assistant to Dr. J. R. Withrow, head of the department. He received his master of science degree at the end of the year, partly in recognition of further work in the summer of 1916 at Columbia university. He was elected to Sigma Xi and Phi Lamda Upsilon professional fraternities.

After serving as instructor in chemical engineering at the University of Wisconsin in 1916-17, Dr. Bain joined the development department of the B. F. Goodrich Co. in Akron and remained there until he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the chemical warfare service in 1918. He became associated with the wire division of the National Lamp Works, General Electric Co. after his discharge from the Army and began the research work which occupied him for more than 15 years.

Centered on Steel Study

One of the early users of the X-ray diffraction in the study of the hardening of steel and other metals, he was, by 1923, thoroughly absorbed in the study of steel, and, while retaining for a time a consulting relationship with the General Electric Co. he joined the staff of the Atlas Steel corporation, later known as the

CAPITAL BOILS POLITICAL POT

Fourth Term Talk Bobs Up Again as Walker Asks Short Campaign.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Politics boiled to the top of the capitol cauldron today on fourth term, tax and trade agreement issues—with hot legislative undercurrents concerning labor leaders and war brokers—but the heat was temporarily turned off manpower draft legislation.

Republicans replied to national Democratic Chairman Frank Walker's suggestion for a short 1944 campaign with the retort that New Dealers already had picked President Roosevelt for their candidate and naturally were ready to go. Said Harrison Spangler, G.O.P. national committee chairman, "it is a matter of regret that New Deal leaders have waited to make the proposal of late political conventions until after their candidate has already been selected." Congressional Republicans echoed his implication that what Walker wanted was a Democratic head start.

Possibility that party-line differences over income tax abatement might be settled by a rendezvous down in Dixie was rumored. The town talk had it Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee and Rep. Knutson (R-

HARDIN CO. GIRL'S BODY FOUND IN POND

Sophomore Who Disappeared March 16 Found Dead.

ALGER, O., April 2—The body of 15-year-old Alberta Donnel, a sophomore at Alger High school who had been missing since March 16, was found this morning, floating in a pond on the Raymond Clark farm a mile and a half north of this Hardin county community.

County authorities immediately began an investigation. After a preliminary inquiry, they announced the girl had left home one or two times in the past without notifying the family, and that members of the family had not been particularly alarmed when she disappeared the last time. On previous occasions she left to visit relatives.

The body was found about 8 a. m. by Mr. Clark, who had gone out to the pond to fish. The pond is formed by a small dam in a creek that runs through the farm.

Prosecuting Attorney Rex Hanna, Sheriff Randell R. Clark and Coroner John A. Monney were conducting an investigation. Authorities said the girl apparently had been dead for several days, but said there was little immediate evidence to indicate the circumstances of her death.

She is survived by her mother and stepfather, Philip N. Newland, and several brothers and sisters.

Bromfield Appointed to State Commission

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 2—Appointment of Louis Bromfield, novelist of Lucas, Richland county, as a member of the state conservation and natural resources commission was announced today by Gov. Bricker. Bromfield's term ends the first Monday in February, 1951. He succeeds C. P. Kite of St. Marys.

The governor also announced appointment of Dr. Benjamin H. Talbut of Toledo to the commission for a term ending the first Monday in February, 1944. Dr. Talbut succeeds Henry J. Pfeiffer, deceased, of Kenton.

NAVY ATTACKS BIG INCOME OF SALES AGENTS

Congress' Aid Asked in Cracking Down on Flock of Factory Representatives.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—The Navy officially asked congress today for aid in cracking down on manufacturers' representatives who "have their offices in their hats" and sales agents "of little ability" receiving "outrageous fees" for procuring war contracts.

Indorsing a proposed legislative curb on their profits, Jacob S. Davis, special assistant to the undersecretary of the Navy and a former Democratic representative from Ohio, told the house naval committee:

"Conceding that an agent should be compensated amply for introducing a new and untried article to the government, he should not receive enormous fees during the emergency due solely to the fact that subsequent orders, to secure which he hardly has to turn a finger, swell his commissions to astronomical figures."

Pay Runs High

Davis reported the Navy itself had investigated more than 40 agents representing more than 200 manufacturing concerns and said their annual compensation ranged from $20,000 to upwards of one half million dollars "in the case of a few."

"Compensation of from $200,000 to $500,000 in one year was not uncommon," he added.

Davis told the committee the great majority of sales' agents originally were employed because of their familiarity with government procurement methods—"their know how in the government rather than because of their familiarity and experience with the products they were attempting to sell."

Some of Real Benefit

He said a few are sales engineers, maintaining a staff of competent assistants rendering scientific and technical services, and added that some of these have contributed valuable suggestions in improvement and development of needed products.

"Many others, however, have their offices in their hats, to so speak, and perform merely routine services for their principals once their government contracts have been awarded and they have become entitled to their commissions. These services, while useful, are not worth the vast sums being poured into the agents' pockets."

Davis said that as a result of the Navy department's own attempts to cut down on the agents' profits, "adjustments have been made with 24 contractors and their agents, resulting in the immediate return of over $2,300,000 to the Navy in cash refunds and contract price reductions, and over $250,000 to the war department."

REVOLT GROWS AGAINST NAZIS

Think Germans Put Out Story of 'Chutists To Cover Increasing Sabotage.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 2 — German radio reports about the activity of British parachute troops in Denmark and Norway, while interesting as an admission that the British have their own men operating in those countries, were regarded by some observers today as a Nazi attempt to cover up increasing native sabotage and unrest within the countries and to allow imposition of even sharper restrictions.

For the second time in five weeks the German - controlled Friesland radio station last night told how armed British chutists blew up a factory in Denmark, and the announcer complained of "the collaboration of the Danes."

(In New York the Columbia Broadcasting System last night recorded a German radio assertion that "things have got to such a pitch that armed British parachutists can force their way into Danish industrial plants and persuade the guards to keep quiet while they plant bombs. * * * It means that the precaution taken by the Nazi authorities isn't sufficient.")

Curfew in Norway

The reports of Danish sabotage came even as the Germans imposed severe curfew restrictions on the Hardanger Vidda plateau in western Norway where British and Norwegian parachute troops were reported in Stockholm dispatches to have established a mountain base.

The Swedish radio, in a broadcast heard here by the Daily Express, said the German commander in Norway, Josef Terboven, was directing several thousand occupation troops in the hunt for the nest of British and Norwegians, which some reports said totaled 1,000 men.

The London Daily Herald printed a dispatch which said thousands of young Lithuanian peasants were waging guerrilla warfare in open revolt against their overlords. Hundreds of students from Vilna and Kovno, and even some professors, were reported to have joined the demonstrators.

In addition, there were said to

Hospital Bond Issue Urged

Building Commission and Council Committee Make Recommendation After Solicitor Gives Ruling.

A $35,000 bond issue was recommended last night by the city hospital building commission and the finance committee of council as the city's means of paying its share of the cost of constructing a temporary hospital addition and remodeling the existing structure. The group met in the mayor's office.

This recommendation is expected to go to council at its next meeting a week from Monday night, Mayor R. C. Snare said this morning. No special meeting is now contemplated because other phases of the project have not yet progressed to the place where the city's lack of cash on hand would slow the start of the work.

This course was chosen by the hospital commission and the finance committee as a result of a verbal opinion of R. W. Wilhelm, acting city solicitor, holding that portions of a hospital bond issue voted last year to build a permanent addition, buy new equipment and remodel the present building could not be used to help finance the temporary addition. The commission had hoped to use portions of the $200,000 bond issue earmarked for new equipment and remodeling the present building—roughly $30,000 in all.

The group asked the acting solicitor to give a formal, written opinion to enable the record of the hospital commission proceedings to show why the bond issue money was not used.

The $35,000 bond issue recommended by the group would be a general obligation of the city and be retired out of millage within the 10-mill real estate tax limitation set by state law. It was felt that the money to retire the bonds should come from within the 10-mill limit because council can issue bonds within that limitation without a vote of the people. While from a municipal financial standpoint it might be more desirable to issue the bonds outside the 10-mill limit, this course would involve submitting the bonds to a public vote, a procedure that would delay the hospital project.

Meanwhile, detailed plans for the temporary addition are being submitted for federal approval and other preliminary steps are being taken. Among recent developments was arrival of the official certification of a priority preference rating from the war production board to help assure supplies that will be needed to construct the addition.

AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST DESTROYERS

Five Jap Ships Attacked; 16 Zeros Shot Down.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2 — American bombers battered a Japanese force of five destroyers southwest of Kolombangara while almost at the same time, fighter planes were engaging 30 to 40 Japanese Zero fighters and shooting down 16 of the enemy planes, the Navy reported today.

In these Solomon Island engagements, six United States planes were lost in the aerial combat, fought northwest of Guadalcanal island, but two of the pilots were rescued.

Results of the attack by bombers on the Japanese surface force were not observed, the Navy reported in communique No. 332, which told also of two more attacks on the Japanese base at Kiska in the Aleutians.

Shooting down of the 16 Zeros in the aerial dog fight off Guadalcanal brought to 902 the number of Japanese planes announced here as lost in the Solomons.

No explanation of the presence of the Japanese force off Kolombangara island 180 miles from Guadalcanal was given. It was presumed because of the presence of a cargo vessel in the force that it was engaged in carrying supplies to one of the Japanese bases in the Solomons area, possibly that at much-battered Munda.

STORM MATEUR NEAR GERMAN ESCAPE PORT

Air Operations Continued but on Restricted Scale Due to Weather.

By The Associated Press

British First army troops have smashed deep into the vital German defense zone in northern Tunisia, an Algiers broadcast said today, and are storming toward Mateur only 18 miles south of the enemy's potential "Dunkerque escape port at Bizerte.

The radio said Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's forces were now "pressing on the retreating Germans in the vicinity of Mateur" after a thrust from Sedjenane, 25 miles to the west.

A bulletin from allied headquarters gave no details of the First army's advance, but declared:

"Our troops continued to push northwards and eastwards beyond Sedjenane."

"Our patrols were very active over the whole front," the communique said.

Air operations in Tunisia were restricted by the weather, but allied bombers and fighters again swept into action against the axis troops and installations.

On the night of March 31 the docks of Bizerte were bombed and yesterday a large force of medium and light bombers attacked the El Maou air field at Sfax with results which the communique described as good.

Fighter sweeps were maintained over the central sector from Fondouk to El Guetar and attacks were made on enemy vehicles.

"Nine enemy aircraft were destroyed during all these operations and four of our aircraft are missing," the communique said.

Nazi Fight To Hold Ground

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel fought for every foot of the shrinking Tunisian holdings and flew in fresh troops in an effort to delay closing of the allied ring.

(Both the Italian and German communiques, recorded by The Associated Press from Rome and Berlin broadcasts, said allied attacks in central and southern Tunisia had been repulsed and the German communique said "enemy attacks yesterday were weaker than on the previous day.")

(The Algiers radio reported American ground forces driving eastward from the region of El Guetar in Central Tunisia had reached the British Eighth Army pursuing the axis forces northward, and said the junction of the two forces "is now complete." The broadcast added that the British First Army in northern Tunisia had driven to the vicinity of Mateur, only 18 miles south of Bizerte. The broadcast was recorded by The Associated Press in London.)

All day yesterday, allied fliers shuttled back and forth over Rommel's columns, along the coastal road north of Gabes, piling up the wreckage of his armored formations and spreading death among the axis troops.

While forward elements of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army tested Rommel's newest line north of Gabes, American troops less than 50 miles west of the British were rounding up prisoners, some of whom had been flown to Tunisia less than 10 days ago.

Patton's Troops Advance

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., sent his forces on the roads east of Maknassy and southeast of El Guetar, charging into rock-ribbed axis positions which have barred him from the coastal road and union with the Eighth army.

Reports from the Sedjenane sector, where British and French infantry has been mopping up nests of axis resistance on the approaches to the naval base of Bizerte, said axis forces counter-attacked yesterday in an effort to recover great stores of material lost earlier. The result of the fighting was not known early today.

Allied troops were last reported in control of the 20-mile valley between Djebel Abiod and Sedjenane, William B. King, Associated

$166,800 Road Program Set for War Plant Area

State Highway Department Advertises for Bids on Four Projects To Start Soon.

Plans for road work in Marion county estimated to cost $166,800 were disclosed today when H. G. Sours, state highway director, advertised for bids on four proposed projects, all designed to speed up traffic on congested roads near the Scioto Ordnance plant.

The projects provide for paving and widening existing road beds, construction of drainage structures and roadside improvement.

They are:

1. Widening, by 10 feet, with Portland cement .883 of a mile of Route 23 in Marion township, beginning at the corporation limit on North Main street and extending north to the junction of Routes 23 and 4 and then continuing on Route 4 to the Likens road. The estimated cost of this proposal, which must be completed by Aug. 31, is $42,000.

2. Widening with either asphaltic concrete or waterbound macadam .369 of a mile of Route 98 north of Route 30-S and the Pennsylvania railroad in Claridon township. This improvement is estimated to cost $6,200 and the department stipulates it must be completed by June 30.

3. Paving with asphaltic concrete on a waterbound macadam base 1.232 miles of the East Fairground road in Marion township between North Greenwood street and Madison avenue. The department estimates this project will cost $74,600. Oct. 15 is the deadline for completion.

4. Paving with surface treated waterbound macadam 1.067 miles of the Linn-Hipsher road, running east of Route 4 to the Pennsylvania railroad. July 31 is the date set for completion of this project which is estimated to cost $42,000.

Sealed bids on the four proposals will be received by the state highway director until 10 a. m., Ohio standard time, April 20. Contractors may bid on all four proposals as a project, or on any one proposal or any combination of proposals.

In awarding the contracts the state will consider the lowest and best bid or bids.

The Marion office of the United States Employment Service, which is under the direction of Fred B. Scherff, will furnish the successful bidder with an employment list from which all qualified unskilled labor, as is locally available, shall be selected.

Plans and specifications for the proposals are on file at the highway department's district 9 headquarters in Delaware.

COUNTY'S RED CROSS WAR FUND MOUNTS

Now $37,183; Plenty of Use for Surplus.

Marion county's Red Cross war fund campaign reached the $37,183.98 mark today as workers totaled contributions and pledges made during the month-long drive in March.

Of this amount, $36,569.73 is in cash, well above the county's $36,000 quota. Additional contributions are still coming in, and good use can be made of all surplus, J. D. Torrance, drive chairman, said.

He pointed out that the local chapter's budget, part of the drive quota, was made up several months ago, and since that time the chapter has undertaken several new responsibilities including the blood donor program, all of which add to the chapter's expenses. To keep pace with developments, more money will be needed than was originally set up in the budget, he said.

Also, nationally, the Red Cross is facing new responsibilities and can handle these only to the extent that contributions make possible, he pointed out.

Sub Late for Maneuvers But She Bags Jap Ships

By The Associated Press

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 2—Army people who were puzzled when an American submarine failed to show up for scheduled maneuvers back in 1941 should be happy to know that the submarine has sunk eight Jap ships, damaged another and probably scored hits on two more.

Lieut. G. E. O'Neill Jr., of Long Beach, Calif., who served as engineering, diving and electrical officer aboard the submarine told the story of her fighting today.

"We were all rigged up for maneuvers with the Army when we got a hurry up order to proceed to Pearl Harbor," the lanky officer said.

"Everybody at 'Pearl' was excited when five of us left there with a tender for Manila."

"Our skipper was Lieut. Comdr. E. B. McKinney (he has been awarded the Navy cross twice) and he had orders to dive when he sighted ships. We were not at war then."

The only ship sighted was a Jap supply ship two days out of Manila and the subs dived and escaped detection.

"If we'd only fired at that ship we might have started the war a month earlier," O'Neil said.

Weathered Jap Attack

He said the submarine stayed at Manila until Dec. 21 despite intense Jap air raids that came at noon every day.

"Once we were loading dry stores when they came over. We were ordered to dive and we hit the bottom and sat there until the raid was over."

The sub then went to Lingayen gulf where 100 Jap ships were landing troops and she found it impossible to get into the gulf because enemy destroyers were all about.

"We fired two fish at a destroyer but couldn't tell the results. Then we hit a can with two fish and she blew up and sank."

The invasion fleet left Lingayen two nights later and the submarine fired into the middle of it as she dived to get away. No results were learned.

She was supposed to return to Manila but that city had fallen so she patrolled off Davao and in Manipa straits until ordered to Balik Papan, Dutch Borneo.

The Japs got to Balik Papan first so the belabored sub proceeded to Surabaya which was being bombed. Food was getting scarce so she ran into Tjilichap, southern Java, after almost 50 days at sea.

Officers and crew went to an inland rest camp and the night they reached the camp Singapore fell and all hands rushed back to the sub.

On her next trip two torpedo hits were scored on a heavy war craft but destroyers chased the the sub before she could observe results.

She proceeded to Australia, after Java fell and left shortly afterward for the South China sea 2,000 miles away.

Score Four Hits

"We sighted a warship heading north for Japan," O'Neil said. "We scored four hits on her—one under each turret and she blew up and sank. We popped him at night and he certainly sounded nice when he went off."

"Two days later," he continued, "we got a Jap merchantman with two torpedoes. He sank slowly and we could see people running around the decks with flashlights."

Survivors were spotted in lifeboats a couple of nights later when the sub surfaced.

"We were surfaced near the shoreline one day when we saw five or six ships leaving the harbor," the sailor said.

"We dove under them and let them steam over us. We potted first one and then another while a third ship tried to ram us. We ran for it and got away.

"A few days later at dusk we got three more in a convoy. This convoy passed over us.

"We could hear their boilers exploding and we heard other explosions for more than an hour.

"We had the honor of the first and last shots in the Coral sea battle," said Lieut. C. W. Flenniken, 29, executive officer and engineer of an old American submarine.

The aged submarine went on to sink four Jap ships in daring forays for a ship of her type.

Flenniken, a native of East Liverpool, O., and a resident of Hamburg, N. Y., when he gets home, said the sub's first victim was a Jap merchantman trying to get home from the battle of Coral sea.

"We didn't see him sink but that night we surfaced and saw his wreckage," he said.

The second victim was also a merchantman and she went down when two torpedoes hit her squarely. This ship was traveling alone and when the sub surfaced to look her over a pair of Jap pants were wrapped around the periscope. Jap planes immediately attacked and the sub dived to get away.

Large Warship Sunk

The best catch came one morning when the submarine moved periscope and sighted a large warvessel.

"We hit her with four torpedoes. She blew up and sank in seven minutes," Flenniken related.

Later a Jap destroyer was sent to the bottom.

"You don't mind it so much if you have something to do and you keep busy," Flenniken said. "On our first patrol some of the men were jittery but they were elated when we got our first ship. After that enthusiasm increased with each successful attack."

Flenniken praised the work of

Unwed Mother Admits Drowning Three Babies

By The Associated Press

DENVER, April 2—An unwed mother has admitted, Detective Capt. James E. Childers said, that she drowned her three newborn babies and hid their bodies in a hope chest because "they were children of sin."

Bernice Williams, 23, signed a statement admitting the slayings, Childers announced, after a calm recital of how she bore the babies unattended the first one in 1941. She was taken into custody without charge and held without bail.

"I did it because I didn't want anyone else to have them and I was afraid I could never bring them up," the officer quoted the trimly dressed brunet as saying.

Three tiny bodies, two of them almost mummified, were found yesterday wrapped in cloth and cardboard, stuffed in a chest stored in an apartment house basement.

Ration Stamp Change Plan Ruled Illegal

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 2—Any method of giving change in ration stamps other than using the one-point red ration stamp was termed "definitely illegal" today by the regional office of price administration.

The OPA made this announcement after reporting information had been received here that some of the larger stores in Cincinnati were manufacturing "their own little slips of paper" which they were handing in lieu of one-point stamps to housewives.

Shoppers should not accept any stamps in change other than the one-pointers which are negotiable at any stores handling foods under the meats and fats rationing program, the OPA said.

"MOM . . . IS JOHNNY'S MOTHER SMARTER'N YOU?"

POP kind of snickered when I asked Mom this question one day when we were having dinner. But Mom didn't. She looked kind of shocked and didn't say a word. So I hurried up to explain.

The reason why I want to know is that Johnny is just about the best athlete around here. Husky and strong—and a good player at everything—and I asked him what made him that way. "Eatin' lots of bread" he says.

I told him I didn't eat much bread and he says "Well if your mom was smart as mine an' gave you Omar Bread, I bet you'd eat a lot of it."

Mom still didn't say anything, but got up and went to the kitchen for something. Pop said in a whisper, "I got an idea we're gonna have Omar Bread around here pretty quick."

And you know, Pop was right. Next day Mom started servin' Omar Bread. And is it ever good tastin' and good eatin'! I eat plenty of bread now. So does Pop. Mom says besides bein' good eatin', Omar Bread is made of good things and has what it takes to stick to your ribs. I guess my Mom is pretty smart too!

which has been working for weeks on the measure carrying funds for operation of state departments in 1943-44, hoped to submit it at a skeleton session of the house today.

The senate finance committee has been considering the bill at the same time, indicating the senate will spend little time on the measure.

The house virtually completed enactment yesterday of legislation continuing for two years the state's $12,000,000 annual payment to cities and counties. It voted down an amendment to increase the figure to $14,000,000.

The house voted to reconsider its passage of a bill transferring from the counties to the state the expense of maintaining patients in state institutions for the feebleminded.

Rep. Ralph A. Siferd (R-Auglaize) asserted the members were not cognizant of the broad provisions of the legislation when they voted on it Tuesday. Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood has estimated the additional obligations would cost the state more than $850,000 a year.

The house, after five roll calls in which many members declined to vote, finally passed, 74 to 31, a bill requiring power companies to equalize service charges to customers on extension lines. The measure goes to the senate.

LABOR DRAFT BILL SHUNTED

Measure Delayed Pending Go-Ahead Signal from President.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Legislation to draft men and women civilians into war production jobs was shunted to a congressional sidetrack today — apparently to await a green light from President Roosevelt—amid official indications induction of fathers into military service would start in about three months.

While hearings continued on the controversial Austin-Wadsworth national service bill, first submitted to a public test more than a month ago, members of the senate military committee said a decision on the measure likely would be delayed for at least another month.

By that time, authoritative sources said, the White House is expected to have some definite information on the workings of the 48-hour work-week in critical labor areas, and of the recent directive designed to push non-essential workers into war jobs or military service.

Thousands of draft deferred fathers saw in a statement of Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey a likelihood many of them would be in military service before fall.

Hershey acknowledged at a press conference that drafting of fathers was likely to begin about July 1—despite his "sentimental" desire to postpone their induction as long as possible. He said no specific draft classification changes had been ordered thus far, but reports indicated at least some "paper shifting" to clear up other classes before drafting fathers was under consideration.

Senator Austin, Republican of Vermont, co-author of the labor draft bill, viewed the prospective delay on that measure as offering further opportunity to consider scores of proposed amendments to establish safeguards for labor and provide checks on the administrative and operative functions of the measure.

Because specific manpower needs are changing daily, Austin said, Secretary of the Navy Knox, War Manpower Chief Paul McNutt, War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army services of supply, would be summoned to testify on the bill near the conclusion of the hearings.

POLICE COMMISSIONER Joseph F. Timility and six other Boston police officials relinquished their jobs pending action on indictments charging conspiracy to permit gambling. Timility made the announcement after conferring with Governor Saltonstall.

IF, like the eagle, you could look down on the amount of railroad equipment it takes to move a single armored division, here is what you would see . . . 75 trains!

Many passenger trains, many freight trains—all required to move just one division. For a division takes all its equipment with it—tanks, jeeps, armored cars, supply trucks, tractors, anti-aircraft guns, many things. And its men, numbering about 12,000, need berths in which to sleep!

What's more, when this division moves by rail, it moves as a unit—that is, trains following one another a few minutes apart.

Now, in terms of trains, those 75 taken out of civilian service and put into military service, are about equal to the number of passenger trains running daily over the Pennsylvania Railroad between two of the busiest places on the face of the globe—New York and Washington.

Multiply this one division by the many moving in this country and you can understand why . . . you may have difficulty getting a berth . . . or be obliged to stand in a coach . . . or arrive at your destination late. In fact, demand for equipment is now so great that on arriving at terminals cars must be put right back into service, so you may find them not quite so spic and span as we would like. Housekeeping facilities are adequate but there's not always time.

But Americans are taking all this like good soldiers. For they know this is a war of movement, and that movement begins right here—in America, on the rails.

Oak Street Girls Form New Club at Y.M.C.A.

Sixth grade girls from the Oak Street school have started a special club a the Y.M.C.A. called the Y Victory Girls.

This club held its second meeting yesterday at the Y, following the organization meeting on March 25. The Victory girls are separate from the regular Y girl's class, the Gray-Y. Various sports activities will be taken up in the future, next week swimming classes being scheduled.

Aside from their scheduled athletic program, the girls are planning to do any Red Cross work that might be offered them. If its activities become many and involved, the club may be opened to fifth grade girls as well.

Instead of a president for the organization, the girls chose two co-leaders, Margaret Hamilton and Lola Fix. Lavon Cryder was elected secretary. The club has 16 members.

Former College Friend of Harding Is Visitor Here

In Marion for the first time in 25 years, E. O. Moats, now living in Ft. Dodge, Kan., visited the office of The Marion Star this week "to see what changes have been made since I worked for Warren G. Harding."

Mr. Moats, who worked for three years for the former owner of The Star who later became president of the United States, was in Marion to be at the bedside of his daughter, Mrs. Hazel Amiss, who is confined to the City hospital. The daughter's husband is employed as chief electrical engineer at the Seiberling Ordnance Plant.

Recalling his experiences with Harding, Mr. Moats called him the most kind-hearted, straightforward fellow I have ever met. "It was a real pleasure to work for him," he said.

Mr. Moats related that he attended the old Ohio Central college at Iberia with Harding. He recalled a debate at school in which he was the captain of a team which defeated another team headed by Harding. "We defeated Harding but it was only because I had a better team. The subject of the debate was 'Resolved: That George Washington was a greater general than U. S. Grant.' I guess that issue hasn't been settled yet," Mr. Moats laughingly remarked.

Mr. Moats was born and reared on a farm about two and a half miles from the old college, which passed out of existence late in the nineteenth century. At the time he and Harding were students the total enrollment was between 175 and 200 students, mostly boys, he said.

Harding was the outstanding man of his class, of the whole school for that matter, Mr. Moats said, adding that "If someone got hurt during school Harding was always the one to give help. If a student fell down in his studies, Harding was the first to give assistance.

Mr. Moats visited with his daughter Wednesday and left to visit friends in Morrow county until next Wednesday when he will return here before leaving for his home in Kansas.

Divisional Officers Attend Meeting Here

Officers from divisional headquarters in Cincinnati, Mrs. Harold Zealley, Mrs. Paul Seiler and Mrs. Edward F. Gibson, majors in the Salvation Army, were guests at a meeting of the Women's Home League of the Marion corps last night at the citadel on West Center street. A number of visitors attended the service, at which talks were given by the visiting officers.

Mrs. Zealley emphasized that this is a day of opportunity in capitalizing for our own good and the good of others. "Do not fret about the past or be unduly anxious for the future, but make good use of this day," she said. Helpful suggestions were given by the speakers on producing better homes, and the vital need of the national welfare. Mrs. Seiler told of a special method of remembering the men who have gone from homes to fight for their country and completing the program was a vocal contribution by Mrs. C. Z. Zachman of Marion and her sister Mrs. Alice Gayman of Canal Winchester. The meeting was followed by a social hour and refreshments with Major and Mrs. Joseph Heard as hosts.

MYSTERY OF MISSING PIGS STILL UNSOLVED

Marketing Slow While Prices Reach New Peak.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 2—The mystery of the missing pigs remained a mystery at the Chicago stockyards today while hog prices reached peaks unequaled previously since October, 1940. The top yesterday was $16.

A record breaking 1942 spring pig crop was forecast by the department of agriculture this year and buyers at the market have awaited an expected flood of porkers daily since the first of the year. While salable receipts in March were moderate, they were wholly inadequate to meet demand and average drove costs were held at consistently high levels.

Livestock experts were unable to advance definite reasons as to why the hogs were not being marketed in larger numbers.

"The pigs were born all right," they said, "and the usual number grew to maturity. The farmers have held back some to fatten them up, but that can't go on forever. Maybe, the black markets are siphoning off a considerable supply. Anyway, they're not coming to market."

Total receipts last month were 247,397 head compared with 240,710 a year earlier; 252,639 in 1941, and 259,162 in Ohio. Of the swine shipped in, 65 per cent were barrows and gilts, indicating producers were holding back sows to increase production of pigs for next year.

Prices have held at peak levels, the experts said, because of the abnormal demand for Army and Navy and from lend-lease requirements, which are expected to account for 45 per cent of this year's total. The ordinary consumer demand also has increased greatly.

Between 1935 and 1939, the per capita consumption of meat in the United States was 126 pounds. In 1941 it increased to 141 and last year was 146 pounds. Rationing will lower the rate, experts said, estimating consumption this year would be 104 pounds.

Two Barns Destroyed by Fire in Union Co.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, April 2—Union county persons were making plans for rebuilding as a result of two of the most disastrous fires in the history of the county which occurred within four hours of each other Wednesday.

Losses in the Leo Rausch barn fire on the Columbus road and the Clegg dairy barn fire on the Milford Center road each were estimated at about $10,000. The Rausch fire was thought to have started from a fire along a nearby railroad while the other fire might have started from a spark from the boiler in the milk pasteurizing plant.

A registered Holstein bull, five sows and pigs, a calf, 400 laying hens and 250 baby chicks were burned to death in the Rausch fire which destroyed the barn and several other buildings along with a tractor purchased last year as well as other farm machinery.

Champion War Worker on Job 81 Hours a Week

SPRINGFIED, Mass., April 2—Ray Wood was hailed by the Package Machinery Co. today as the champion war worker in that type of industry.

He has been working 81 hours a week since Jan. 1 on a special grinding job for the Army and Navy at the company's plant here. That's 31 hours a week more than the latest average recorded by the bureau of labor statistics for the entire industry, the company reported.

In 1942 he set two national records—working 120 hours for the week ended Sept. 20 and 120.6 for the week ended Nov. 24, the company added.

DISTILLERS SUPPORT LIQUOR RATIONING

One Representative Sees No Other Solution for State.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 2—Distillers threw their support today behind a proposal to ration dwindling liquor supplies in thirsty Ohio.

"I don't see any other way out," observed E. F. O'Brien, vice president of Frankfort Distilleries, Inc., spokesman for executives of a dozen major distillers who met yesterday with Liquor Director Don A. Fisher and Gov. Bricker.

Fisher said the state liquor department was prepared to begin rationing after the senate enacts house-approved legislation authorizing him to take steps required to distribute liquor equitably. Senate action is anticipated next week.

Distillers agreed a prompt rationing program was the only way to balance Ohio's demand for liquor with supplies available under wartime conditions under which distilleries converted to production of alcohol for explosives.

O'Brien said Ohio had received its equitable share of whisky under a program whereby distillers allot 1943 supplies on a fixed percentage of the state's 1942 purchases.

"The industry isn't giving any greater proportion of its nationally advertised goods to any state than it is to Ohio," O'Brien asserted. Ohio is fourth among states in liquor purchases.

BENDER ANSWERS CRITICS OF BRICKER

Ohio Congressman Replies To White Editorial.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—George Bender of Cleveland, Ohio Republican representative - at - large, replied on the floor of the house yesterday to an editorial by William Allen White, Kansas editor, which Bender said questioned the qualifications of Buckeye Gov. Bricker for president.

Asserting Bricker was the outstanding man for the Republican nomination for president, Bender said:

"Governor Bricker will not be denied by Republicans searching with millions of Democrats for a way out of the wilderness of bureaucracy and bunkum.

"He will not be denied by those who look forward to the day when government surrenders once more to the people the powers it has seized."

It was Bender's second statement recently describing Bricker as the leading Republican presidential prospect.

Bender said White's criticism was "general."

"The plain fact is that no man could be elected governor of Ohio for three consecutive terms without a solid demonstration of his abilities. . . .

"It is a great tribute to Gov. Bricker of Ohio that his opponents have begun a campaign of villification against him more than a year before the Republican national convention must convene to consider its nominee for the presidency.

"Such an effort demonstrates to the entire nation that the governor of Ohio is the outstanding man in the field."

48-Hour Work Week Ordered in Ohio Area

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 2—A minimum 48-hour work week in the Lima and Sidney-Piqua-Troy, O., areas and the Saginaw-Bay City, Mich., area was ordered today by Robert C. Goodwin, regional director of the war manpower commission in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Goodwin said a recent presidential order providing the longer work week was applied to these areas because of labor shortages.

The Lima area includes Allen, Van Wert, Putnam and most of Auglaize counties, and the Sidney-Troy-Piqua area, Shelby, Logan, Miami and Darke counties.

Provisions of the order will be applied May 1, allowing a 30-day grace period for employers to bring their operations into compliance, Goodwin announced.

Relic of Early Days Given Kenton Dept.

Special to The Star

KENTON, April 2—A trumpet-like megaphone through which Kenton's early fire chiefs were wont to call stentortian commands to laboring firemen today passed into possession of the fire department and was laid up with photographs and other relics of pioneer fire-fighting days.

The horn was purchased in 1808 when the old Kenton volunteer fire department was organized. It was hung around the neck of the fire chief and became a badge of his office while on fire calls. In 1886, use of the megaphone was discontinued and it was prized by the local camp of United Spanish War Veterans. This week the U. S. W. V. organization voted to donate it to the fire department and the presentation was made by W. Dow Wagner, camp adjutant.

Revenge Is Not Too Sweet

AMERICANS, remembering their horror when German planes were threatening to level London, have Britain's grim self-satisfaction over what is happening now to Berlin. But even for the much-bombed residents of London, revenge is not too sweet.

They have reason to doubt that the war can be won by obliterating the enemy's capital, which seems now to be a tantalizing possibility. The bombing of London, disastrous as they were, also had the effect of stiffening British determination. German determination now is on trial.

While theoretically, German morale can be shattered by proof that the war Hitler started, with their tacit consent, can be brought home to them this time as it never was 25 years ago, that point hasn't been settled. Mass bombing of cities remains what it was when the German first tried it in World war I—an experiment in the horror of war brought to relatively unprepared civilian groups.

Germany worked zealously for a generation to assure the experiment's success—but the experiment failed at the climax in the autumn of 1940. British civilians rallied and prepared the retaliation which Germans now are witnessing. All limitations have been suspended; neither side is bound by anything but equipment, weather and antiaircraft defense. The thing that Germany deliberately began but could not bring to a conclusion has been turned against it with a fury that leaves no room for doubt in German minds that the horror which was supposed to rout the enemy was not, as Germans had been told, a German monopoly.

Our Garden Army

ACCORDING to apparently unmistakable indications, the man with the hoe, and of course all the other implements that go with the one made famous in poetry, will be numerous and vigorously active on Marion's home front during the next few months.

News from stores throughout the city tells of an unprecedented volume of seed sales and there are also reports of many copies of gardening guides for amateurs being studied by eager and hopeful readers.

The good earth is going to be called upon for generous production and in some instances also for generous cooperation with untrained hands. Such cooperation is a virtual certainty provided it really is good earth and not clay mixed with stone and cement.

The foregone conclusion is that not all those who march to the gardens will return victorious. There will be some likely to end up with no more than a few scraggly lettuce leaves and possibly a meager collection of radishes, carrots, tomatoes, etc. that failed to get beyond the stage of infantile development.

But when that happens, it's almost a sure bet that the blame will rest with the gardener and not with the garden. Investigation will be pretty sure to show that the man with the hoe laid off the hoeing, too often to snooze on the front porch, change the hoe for a golf club, or while away the hours with the boys downtown helping increase the liquor shortage or trying to reach a decision on such matters as conduct of the war, the tax problem or the fourth term.

However, we guess there won't be many slackers in the ranks. As a whole, this growing army of gardeners, beyond doubt the largest in Marion's history, is going in to win, come what may, and barring serious weather complications, the harvest will be bountiful, to say the least.

That will go a long way toward whipping rationing, and more important, toward helping feed the boys who are hammering the everlasting daylight out of Hitler and Hirohito.

One Fighting French Voice

GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE'S apparently unequivocal acceptance of Gen. Henri Giraud's invitation to create a common leadership of "fighting Frenchmen" removes the only formal obstacle to French unity. This was one of the objectives of the conference at Casablanca.

Strong personal leadership in the present crisis is France's only chance of salvation, but until Gen. de Gaulle's decision to join with Gen. Giraud was revealed, it continued to threaten the French with the same factionalism that helped to ruin their republic in its war with Germany. The two strongest men to emerge from the ruins had to be united before their followings could be united. Evidently, this necessary condition has been achieved; the meeting of the two generals becomes an anti-climax in light of Gen. de Gaulle's unreserved acceptance of Gen. Giraud's invitation.

Henceforth, the Fighting French will be all Frenchmen who have not given up hope.

Antioch Again Pioneers

Ohio College Trains Students in World Reconstruction.

By JOHN TRYE
Associated Press Writer

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., April 2 (AP)—Antioch college, which began [illegible] 25 years ago [illegible] is getting ready to [illegible] plan, now in [illegible] to train specialized [illegible] for post-war reconstruction.

"While the experience of private and government agencies, the college [illegible] a remarkable [illegible] that 'institutes for democratic reconstruction,' to train [illegible] work in foreign and domestic fields.

President A. D. Henderson says that students will be allowed to make "reconstruction service" a college major the same as engineering or medicine.

"Antioch has organized its new program around the idea that not only will there be a post-war need for thousands of young people trained in all fields, but that these young people need training in democratic citizenship and social perspective as well."

College officials report that the program already is meshing with the cooperative job system, wherein students divide their school year between the campus and work in business and industry.

One Studies Communications

Largely on the basis of a preliminary six-weeks conference on post-war problems in Central Eastern Europe, one girl has taken a job with the federal communications commission analyzing foreign broadcasts. A pre-requisite was a strong background in the history of one country.

Another girl who has taken two reconstruction courses was placed with the coordinator of inter-American affairs in the division of education. Four students have joined the post-war planning division of the department of labor, the first planning agency set up by the government.

J. D. Dawson, college personnel director, reports that the problem is not getting jobs but finding students to fill them in such organizations as the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, [illegible], the Friendly Service Committee, the Near East Foundation, the international labor office, and the rehabilitation commission headed by Herbert H. Lehman, former governor of New York.

Under the program being developed, a student wanting administrative or personnel work abroad after the war will take background courses in economics, history, psychology, government, anthropology, etc. Along with these can be built a major field with advanced courses in government, personnel administration, sociology, education, and intensive language study, plus specialized post-war courses.

"This same general framework," Henderson points out, "can obviously be made to fit an engineering student looking toward reconstruction work either abroad or in this country, a girl in dietetics or in child care who plans to engage in post-war relief, a prospective social worker or leader of community recreation, a major in consumers' cooperatives, a budding psychologist, or a teacher."

First Hand Information

Henderson also plans an attempt to get representatives of various national groups here to train them for return to their homelands after the war. He sums up the objectives of the institute as 'getting into the grass roots and shaping a public opinion which will support a progressive and democratic settlement along the lines which analysis suggests."

"Antioch's contention is," he said, "that social sciences and social thinking are not only indispensable in working out a post-war world worth living in, but that they must be tied in with a program that has as its aim the fitting of young men and women to cope with post-war problems."

The institute is a product of months of discussions on the campus, including several conferences addressed by nationally known authorities in various planning fields.

The most recent, the six-week institute on reconstruction of Central and Eastern Europe, was offered to the students as a credit course and 139 students, more than a third of those on the campus at one time, enrolled. Representatives of the government's of Poland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Greece, and the United States addressed the week-end meetings.

Tenors Battle-Bound

Field of Music Suffers Heavily from Draft.

By JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK, April 2—If you are a young musician and your specialty is singing, you are more likely to reach military service than if you played a violin.

This, Ernest Hutcheson explains, is not because the selective service people love vocal music, but because nearly all young singing students are of draft age. Fiddlers, for example, start serious work before their teens, and there are thousands of fiddlers well below draft age.

But male singers can't start singing until their voice is ready, and that practically never happens under the magic limit set by General Hershey.

Tapped By U. S.

At the Juilliard School of Music which Mr. Hutcheson heads, male and female used to be divided approximately 50-50. The percentage of men is now 38, and there is small chance it will be adjusted unless the war ends, or unless the WAACS, WAVES and other auxiliaries begin conscripting women.

Last summer, Mr. Hutcheson reports, 30 men were admitted to competitions for Juilliard scholarships in voice. But last fall, when the examinations were held, only four were on hand. The Army had the rest.

"But it seems to me that to a greater extent than ever before in war, music has made a contribution of value," Mr. Hutcheson declares. "It is not only that we provide bands for the Army and the Navy.

"We have devised a workable system of providing music for the men themselves — concerts by the hundreds, musical shows, and so forth. Millions of records have gone to the men. This war joins radio reaching nearly every barracks the world over.

"Music has sold millions in bonds, and provided millions for such organizations as the Red Cross. But I can't help but think also of such boys as my student in Iceland. His piano disappeared, somehow, but he had been forethoughted. He had taken an accordion. So he not only played his accordion, but he arranged shows. The last I knew he and his show were touring Iceland with enormous success.

Orchestras Menaced

"In this country I find that dozens of important school orchestras are endangered. I think that for the duration we must make up our mind to hold to what we have, desperately. If a college has had a full-sized symphony, sharing it with the city, perhaps, it must simply reconcile itself to having a small orchestra for a while.

"But it must keep something. I find that musical organizations, particularly orchestras, can be kept alive much more easily than they can be revived once they've gone under."

Costly Trip

GREELEY, Colo. — The groceries Robert Beemer had just purchased were worth a great many ration points and so he was giving them plenty of attention—in fact about $250 worth.

He had them piled on the seat beside him as he drove home. They started to fall and Beemer grabbed for them. He stepped accidentally on the gas pedal, lost his grip on the steering wheel, and the car crashed into a building.

Police said $100 damage was done to the car; $150 to the building.

THE DIE HARD

Rehabilitating Our Disabled Soldiers

by Jack Stinnett
Washington Correspondent.

THE rehabilitation bill, which has passed the senate and house without even the formality of a record vote, means more to members of our armed forces than any congressional action since the first selective service act.

The bill gives every person honorably discharged from the armed forces before the end of the war for reasons of health, aggravated by training ordeals, or disabilities incurred in taining or combat, access to the veteran's administration's rehabilitation training program.

This means that for up to four years, these persons will be paid from $80 to $100 a month (according to dependency obligations) and given other benefits while they are studying to take their new places in vocations to which they are suited.

When the bill was being prepared, which was before casualties were being returned from North Africa, India, and other recent hot spots, there were more than 800 such persons in the United States. Military experts warn that our casualties will probably run into the millions and point out that most of these will be disabled, or slightly wounded (because of new advances in medicine.) That means the new rehabilitation law might well turn into our greatest federal-financed program of vocational education.

The rehabilitation program also applies to women. Just before the senate voted on the bill, Sen. Chan Gurney of Yanktown, S. D., offered amendments which made it "him or her" all the way through. Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, author of the bill in the upper chamber, accepted the amendments without objection. The house, which had a similar bill sponsored by Rep. John Rankin's (of Mississippi) committee on World war veterans legislation, also doffed its hats to the WAACS, WAVES, SPARS, etc., when it passed the bill.

WITH the President's signature on the measure, all any man or woman who has been discharged from the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marines, or Merchant Marine for reasons of health need do is apply to his or her nearest veterans' administration regional office to come under the benefits of the new bill.

The ink is hardly dry on the bill, but I understand that the veterans' administration already has its machinery rolling and within a few weeks or months will be expanding the vocational training and hospitalization programs to take care of every case as it comes along.

The other day I received a letter from a soldier discharged from the Army for reasons of health. He is one of probably several thousands of such cases. When our hospital ships start rolling in from the war fronts, there will be many thousands more.

Although this young man never saw action at the front, his case is typical. He is one of those who will be benefited by the new bill.

"I was drafted into the Army April 8, 1941," he writes, "and was honorably discharged April 2, 1942, because of a physical disability (bronchial asthma.)

"There was nothing said about a pension of any kind when I was discharged. When I returned home I began to seek employment but was turned down because of my physical disability.

"I wonder if there is a chance of getting some kind of a pension to at least defray the cost of medicines, etc., that I am forced to borrow money to buy now."

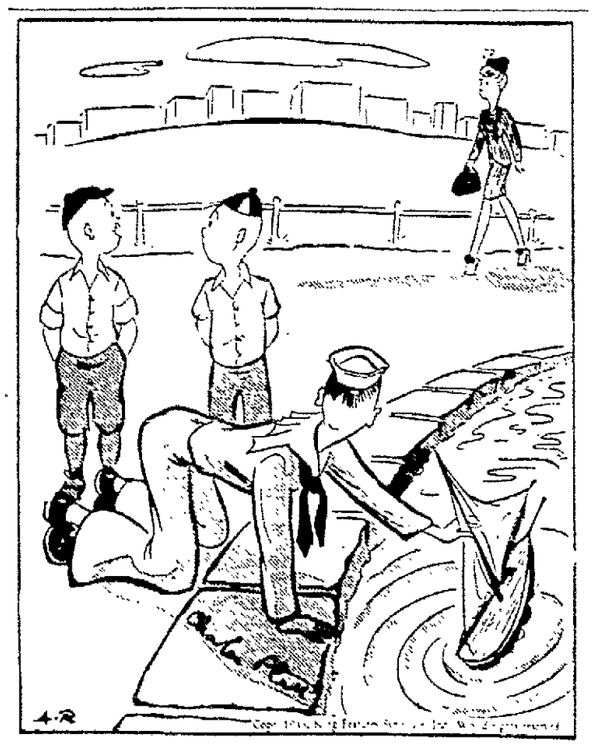
THIS case is typical. There may be thousands affected by the new rehabilitation bill who don't know that it has been passed by congress.

There is no "pension," but the bill will provide compensation for disabled veterans ($80 to $100 a month) who take advantage of the program.

The program will be administered by the veterans' administration, which has regional offices in almost all of the states and several in some of the more densely populated areas. There are hospitals all over the country. Close to this young man in Kentucky is a veterans' hospital that specializes in respiratory diseases. If he needs hospitalization, he can get it there.

In the meantime, he can begin the "vocational training" phase of rehabilitation. The object is to find a useful place in society for these persons who may be handicapped. If he hasn't a trade, he will be taught one, even if it takes as long as four years. If he only needs additional training in his trade he will be given it.

As soon as possible, he will be equipped to carry on under his own power and efforts made to place him in a job.



"Now we'll really see whether he's interested in boats or not."

Baseball Heroes

The Late Jimmy Collins Never Was in Hall of Fame in Lifetime But Should Be Given Place Now.

By DAMON RUNYON

I SUPPOSE now that he has passed [illegible] one of the greatest [illegible] baseball players who ever [illegible] Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., a tribute that was denied him [illegible]. It would have brightened [illegible] gentleman's last years no little had he [illegible] of me were preserved in [illegible] I find elderly baseball [illegible] grateful for public memory [illegible].

I have no argument with the selection [illegible] 14 players of the era since 1900 whose features are perpetuated in metal in the hall.

They were elected in a nationwide [illegible] the Baseball Writers Association of America, and I have the honor of being a member, though never having cast my untrammeled ballot in this spot, but I am a little skeptical about many of the current writers who vote for the "immortals" being old enough to have seen some of the guys they voted for.

I FEAR they must have taken hearsay [illegible] books of baseball records, and hearsay is a [illegible] says second testimony when you come [illegible] impeach a human being. I take it [illegible] my fellow members of the B. B. W. of A. are responsible for the omission from the [illegible] memorials to any baseball writers except [illegible] Henry Chadwick.

I am positive they had to take hearsay [illegible] Chadwick. He was a pioneer in certain [illegible] of the game, but not a very good baseball [illegible] I once looked up some of his stuff.

Collins missed election to the hall a [illegible] of times, though old timers who followed [illegible] game before and after the era of 1900 say [illegible] belonged on the apocryphal "all-time" [illegible] of baseball history. The only third baseman [illegible] the Hall of Fame is John J. McGraw, and [illegible] was not a great third baseman. He was a great manager. It is on that basis he must [illegible] been elected. He was not as good a third baseman as any one of a dozen others who have played that position and certainly he was not [illegible] Collins' class.

The "all-time" team of the average observer of the game since 1900 would probably be made up of Hal Chase, first; Eddie Collins, second; Honus Wagner, short; Jimmy Collins, third; Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth, outfielders; Bill Dickey, catcher; Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Ed Walsh, Carl Hubbell, Napoleon Rucker and Dizzy Dean, pitchers, with Joe McCarthy as manager.

Of these, Eddie Collins, Wagner, Cobb, Speaker, Ruth, Mathewson, Johnson and Alexander are in the hall. The great Hal Chase magician of first base play, will probably never get there, but I think I find a covert reference to him in the words on George Harold Sisler's plaque—"One of the best two fielding first baseman in the history of the game." Whom could the other have been but Chase?

WALTER JOHNSON'S plaque is inscribed "Conceded to be the fastest ball pitcher in history of the game."

This coincides with my own opinion but has always been disputed by those who saw a man named Amos Rusie of the pre-1900 Giants. They claimed Rusie's curve was as fast as his fast ball and that both were faster than Johnson's fast one.

I agree, too, with the language of Honus Wagner's plaque: "The greatest shortstop in baseball history," but it may be denied by old admirers of Joe Tinker, Maranville, Bancroft, Elberfeld and a score of other great shortfielders of another day. However, on all around ability—batting, fielding, base running and stamina, I guess "the Flying Dutchman" was in a class by himself.

I saw a little of a man years ago that I thought was a powerful player, a first baseman who was probably a better man than Chase, bar the fielding magic of the latter and who surely belongs among the baseball "immortals." He was not only a magnificent player but was at the same time a great manager. His name was Frank Chance.

Rationing at Zoo

By JOHN GROVER
Associated Press Features Writer

WASHINGTON—American women needn't feel sorry for themselves over food rationing problems.

Dr. William M. Mann could trade places with a woman with a dyspeptic husband on a diet, five finicky boarders and 13 hungry stepchildren, and still get the best of the bargain. As director of the National Zoological Park his culinary problems begin with aardvark and go right through to zebra.

Little Mrs. Jones may get a roar of rage from her husband if she brings in a platter of beans instead of a steak. Just let Doc Mann try to slip a casserole of macaroni and cheese and a combination salad to a hungry lion if you want to hear a really professional roar.

The eight tons of meat consumed every month by the carnivores at the zoo aren't such a problem, at that. Long before beef went out of sight the zoo switched to horsemeat. It doesn't seem to make any difference to the tigers.

Bananas are the scarce food around the zoo. They're getting less than 10 per cent of the normal supply. They're being fed to specimens that can't get along without bananas—chiefly animals and birds which normally eat fruit. To names get a mixture of Irish and sweet potatoes, boiled, mashed, sweetened and rolled into balls.

Canned milk is the only canned food regularly fed to the zoo's star boarders. That isn't rationed yet, but, like any other institution, the zoo is rationed on sugar. Normally they used 60 cases a month in compounding diets for the animals, but they only get 40 pounds now. Honey is being substituted.

Otherwise, the wartime food problem at the zoo is still much the same old job of hunting weird and unusual calories for the furred and feathered gourmets. Such items as dried flies and ants' eggs haven't been rationed. Dr. Mann doesn't expect these items to become so popular as human food as to affect the zoo's supply. But unless a lot of husbands get really desperate after a steady diet of creamed eggs and grated carrots,

VORYS TAKES RAP AT ARMY OFFICE-HOLDERS

Ohio Congressman Says Some Abuse Authority.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Civil- are tired of being pushed around by military "office-hold- Rep. John M. Vorys (R- Ohio asserts.

Vorys in a house address said military sometimes went too in obtaining equipment and quarters for officers handling civil functions of the war department and called on con- gress to curb the practice.

"We feel we are representing people back home when we say 'nothing is too good for our fighting men'," Vorys said. "In order to be sure they get whatever they need, factories, machinery, land or buildings.

"In the main, the Army has used this power wisely, but there are a lot of office-holders who have let this power go to their heads. They think that when congress and the people say, 'nothing is too good for our fighting men,' we mean them."

Vorys said the Army last summer took over "the best floors" of the Huntington National bank in Columbus, O., which he described as the city's finest office build- ing, without warning when other quarters were available.

Last August, Vorys continued, a Columbus shoe factory was in- spected for Army seizure and ver- bal agreements made to lease it. The result was that employes took jobs elsewhere, reducing the com- pany's force from 528 to 121 last March "but the plant has not yet been taken over," Vorys added.

Morrow County Man Ends Life with Gun

Mr. Shade was born in Con- gress township June 24, 1867. He was unmarried. Two brothers, Charles, with whom he made his home, and Fred of Mt. Gilead, and a sister, Mrs. Belle Jenkins of Springfield, survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Craven funeral home here. Burial will be made in Bryn Zion cemetery.

Soft Underbelly of Axis in Danger of Invasion Blow

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Way back last Armistice day Britain's colorful prime minister, Winston Churchill, coined that ex- pressive phrase "the underbelly of the axis" having special refer- ence to Italy.

Then somebody came along and made it the "soft underbelly of the axis," without specifying whether this applied to the coun- try or was poking a sly finger into the fatness of Mussolini. Probably it referred to Italy, because il duce long ago ceased to inspire even jokes.

In any event, the expression takes on special significance these days when we hear so much about a possible allied invasion of Italy after the campaign in Tunisia has been concluded. The Tunisian in- cubator hasn't yet hatched its chickens, and we shall be smart not to count them before they're out of their shells, but we are warranted in looking ahead.

Heart Not in War

Italy is without a doubt a "soft" spot in the axis. Many Italians are unwilling participators in a war to support Hitlerian bar- barism which they abhor. Their hearts aren't in the effort and there long have been signs that that they would be glad to quit if they could. I dare say many of them would welcome an allied invasion if it could be achieved without too much bloodshed and destruction.

So Italy is soft because of this. And it's soft because of Mussolini's disastrous leadership, which has been made worse by the exactions of his Nazi master. It certainly invites invasion, providing that wouldn't interfere with an in- vasion of western France if that were feasible.

How much would it hurt Hitler —for he is our number one en- emy—if the allies overran Italy? Well, it wouldn't help us get at the all highest direct, for the Alps across Italy's northern bor- der form a tough barrier. To be sure, Hannibal in 218 B. C. took an army—including elephants— through what we know as little St. Bernard pass into Italy. But it isn't being done so much these days.

However, Italy (with Sicily) is the base which has enabled the Nazi chief to make disastrous war in northern Africa. And it is pos- session of Italy which has made it possible for him to block the Med- iterranean routes, thereby forcing both the United States and Brit- ain to send their ships for the east clear through South Africa—a heart-breaking long-haul.

Good Axis Base

From Italy, too, the axis has been able to operate against Yugoslavia and Greece and the islands of the Aegean.

In short, it is through Italy that Hitler came mighty close to gain- ing complete control of the Med- iterranean theater and thereby winning the war.

Apart from these advantages, Mussolini has been bowing his neck to the yoke and sending great numbers of Italians into Germany to work in the fuehrer's fields and factories. The Nazis also have been getting troops, war supplies and much food from their unwilling ally.

And of course the Italian navy and airforce would go by the board.

When the allies have finished off the axis in Africa they will have a ready-made invasion force already in northern Tunisia, just across from Sicily. There are at least a half million allied troops in that theater with much equip- ment and a great airforce which could strike easily at Italian terri- tory. Ships and other equipment could be brought from Britain.

We need an invasion of France to beat Hitler without a long drawn-out war, but next to that the knocking out of Italy would be a highly important victory.

RITES HELD TODAY FOR LIEUT. PORTER

Officer Killed in Landing of Troops in Africa.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, April 2—Serv- ices for Marysville's first casual- ty of World war II were scheduled to be held at the Congregational church here this afternoon when final rites for Lieut. George W. Porter, 23, of this city will be con- ducted.

Lieut. Porter lost his life when he was the victim of a shot from a service revolver which was ac- cidentally discharged as troops were preparing to disembark from ship in the West African sector recently. The body arrived here from New York City Thurs- day.

Military services were to be conducted assisted by soldiers from Fort Hayes and Union Post of the American Legion. Burial was to be in Oakdale cemetery here.

Capt. John L. Porter, brother of the victim was unable to be here for the services although his wife of Memphis, Tenn., was present. She disclosed that her husband has been cited for brav- ery and the Distinguished Flying Cross for safely landing his burn- ing transport plane in Africa. He also has been informed that he is to be advanced to the rank of major. He is commander of a ferry patrol.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Sr. of Tiffin, former Marys- ville residents, have been here since learning of their son's death Sunday.

SABOTAGE

have been small infiltrations of regular Russian troops from po- sitions near the Lithuanian bor- der, and Soviet planes were re- ported to be dropping supplies to the bands.

(The Swedish newspaper Nya Dagligt Allehenda said the Ger- mans had publicly executed 40 Lithuanians in the Vilna district as an example because farmers refused to yield agricultural products and Lithuanians had not responded to an army service call.)

Sabotage in Greece

Greece was furnishing more reports of increasing sabotage, the latest relating damage to German planes in an Athens re- pair shop which caused them to crash on their first flight.

From Istanbul come a report of street-fighting in which 18 were killed and 22 wounded when po- lice attempted to break up a pa- rade in Sofia, Bulgaria, that turned into a demonstration fa- voring Soviet Russia.

A Reuters report from Zurich said that a Bulgarian anti-Fascist had obtained a post in the Ger- man U-boat yards in the Black sea port of Sozopot and "headed a plot by which three U-boats were sunk on their trial trips and 70 Germans on board perished."

Another Reuters story from Is- tanbul said that it was estimated there that the Germans had ar- rested more than 5,000 persons in Greece since the Casablanca and Adana conferences and that nearly 300 of them had been ex- ecuted.

INVASION JITTERS. Round- about reports from Europe told of Allied parachute troops es- tablishing a Norwegian base from which to raid Nazi-held factories (1), adding to German invasion fears. Britain estab- lished a forbidden zone along portions of her shores (black outlines) from which an invas- ion might spring (2). Italians announced Sicily had become a "fortified outpost" (3) and frankly feared attack. A Nazi- formed "army of the Balkans" for defense against invasion (4) was reported. And to the east lies the Russian foe (5). Turkish military men, mean- while, conversed with the Allies in North Africa.

ABDUCTION IN CHICAGO. In a juvenile reign of terror, five of Chicago's "Dead End Kids" abducted and robbed three jun- ior members of the Lake Forest social set, including Stanton Armour, 18, scion of the meat- packing family, and robbed a priest before three of them wound up in the arms of the law. The three socialites ab- ducted are shown at top. They are Armour, left; Helen Joy Priebe, 18, who recently inher- ited the major part of $200,000, and Kent Clow, son of the vice president of a plumbing firm. Two of the "Kids" arrested are shown below. They are Robert "Bozo" Kravish, 17, left, and Ray "Wiggle Ears" Weglowski, 17. The young robbers held up Father McGovern, Hillsdale, Ill., priest and took his car and then rammed Clow's car. Rob- bery and abduction of the young socialites then followed.

CONGRESS

Minn), opposing quarterbacks in the quarrel over the Rumi skip- a-year tax plan, would go into a huddle for harmony somewhere in the south. Doughton, whose Democratic lineup licked the plan on the floor, headed for his North Carolina home and Knutson for Florida—both for brief rests— amid reports they might get to- gether and come back with a compromise pay-as-you-go plan.

Political Harmony

Another sign of potential polit- ical harmony of a purely tem- porary sort hinged on the sen- ate's stand toward renewal of the reciprocal trade program. From Senator Taft (R-Ohio) came the proposal the authority be ex- tended for three years, but pro- vide all agreements expire six months after the war ends. Ad- ministration-inspired compromise proposals had been reported laid before Democratic members of the senate finance committee by Chairman George (D-Ga), with an eye to avoiding a controversy.

Taft agreed it was no time to "make a political fight" on the free trade vs. tariff issue, but added it would have to be "con- sidered after the war in the light of conditions then."

The wartime internal unity theme also keynoted the senate war investigating committee's call to labor leaders to "demonstrate that they are statesmen and patriots as well as paid advocates for worthy causes." In its first official comment on the recent testimony of John L. Lewis, the committee condemned the atti- tude of the United Mine Workers president in his statement that his no-strike promise was not "necessarily binding."

The group headed by Senator Truman (D-Mo) took the occasion to assert that such leaders as Lewis should recognize that "la- bor has duties as well as rights," and "no citizen has the right to jeopardize the nation's existence in war time."

Agents Under Fire

Other congressional condemna- tion was turned on manufac- turers' agents who obtain gov- ernment contracts as the house naval committee called in war and Navy department represen- tatives to express their views on curbing "excessive" profits paid such persons. After hearing half a dozen agents acknowledge an aggregate income of more than a million dollars in the past two years, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said "the town is full of 'em," and asserted:

"If their conscience doesn't prevent these agents from con- tinuing to take these high profits while our boys are dying on the high seas and in foxholes, then it is up to congress to take definite action and take it quickly."

Meanwhile, legislation to draft men and women civilians into war production jobs was shunted to a congressional sidetrack—appar- ently to await a presidential green light amid official indica- tion induction of fathers into military service will start in about three months.

BRITISH FIGHTERS BLAST JAP BOMBERS

Five Shot Down and Others Damaged.

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, April 2—Eleven British Hurricanes intercepted 30 Japanese bombers with fighter escort, which attacked Feni in southeast Bengal yesterday, and in combats over a wide area de- stroyed five of the raiders and damaged several others, of which at least three probably did not regain their base, a British com- munique said today.

One hurricane was shot down, but the pilot was seen to bail out.

(A communique from Japanese Imperial headquarters, broad- cast by the Tokyo radio and re- corded by The Associated Press, said the Japanese carried out a surprise attack on the airfield near Cox's Bazar on March 31 and shot down eight enemy planes and damaged eight other planes the entire defending force.)

AUSTRALIA, April 2—Allied air activity over enemy-held terri- tory north of Australia slacked off yesterday, although the allied command said numerous fires were set by planes which bombed Japanese trenches in the Mubo area south of Salamaua, New Guinea.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 2—Reuters, in a dispatch from an advanced allied base in New Guinea, reported to- day special Australian patrols on Goodenough and the Trobriand islands had captured hundreds of Japanese survivors from smashed convoys in the Bismarck sea.

More than 100 of the Japanese were killed when they offered re- sistance, the dispatch said.

AFRICA

Press correspondent on this front, described the valley as littered with enemy equipment and ma- terial.

The best evidence the Germans hope to hold out in Tunisia a while longer is that, despite dis- astrous attacks by allied air forces on axis supply lines, Italy and Germany are continuing to move war materials and even some troops across to Africa.

To hold Tunisian bases, which effectively block allied storming of the continent from the south, Rommel has at least 200,000 men available in his own African corps and the army of Von Arnim and considerable armor.

Even as the lull developed in land operations, allied airmen pressed their destructive blows despite bad weather and fresh de- tails became available of the raid by 100 light and medium bombers yesterday upon El Maou air field at Sfax, the biggest single oper- ation by the western desert air force since the days of El Ala- mein.

Whole Field Hit

The whole area of the strategic field was covered with a pattern of bomb bursts and almost every- thing on the ground must have been destroyed or damaged, of- ficers said.

As in Wednesday's raid by al- most 100 U. S. Flying Fortresses upon southern Sardinia, all the raiders returned. Heavy anti-air- craft fire was encountered over El Maou, but no enemy planes at- tempted to interfere.

Tunisian air forces assisted the Americans in the El Guetar sector by shooting up enemy tanks and trucks and downing several axis planes in operations to which the pilots refer as "delousing sweeps."

Competent sources at allied headquarters, analyzing the cam- paign which smashed the Mareth line and drove Marshal Rommel northward into an area which of- fers no good defensive positions short of the ridges some 80 miles beyond Mareth, stressed the im- portance of the aid given the Eighth army by General Patton's columns.

They pointed out the Americans —including the First and 34th di- visions and the First armored di- vision — had regained all the ground lost before the mid-Febru- ary axis offensive at the center, American flank attacks in the El Guetar, Maknassy and Fondouk areas, had constituted a real men- ace to the enemy and occupied considerable forces there while General Montgomery was smash- ing at the Mareth line and en- circling it, these sources added.

Montgomery's method always has been to give his men a little rest after each major blow so that they will be in the freshest possi- ble condition for the next one.

Big Fortress Raid Indicates Fate of Nazi "Dunkerque"

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, April 2—The smash- ing 100-plane Flying Fortress raid on Sardinia was interpreted here today as defining the possible scale and probable fate of any axis attempt to duplicate Dun- kerque on a grand scale, but unofficial observers suggest- ed it was more likely the Nazis would right to the death rather than relieve from Adolf Hitler to buy more time for defense of the con- tinent.

Despite the cost in men and material, and its effect on the morale of the German people, such a stand would fit the recent defense-mindedness displayed by Hitler and his general staff when faced with the gathering power of the allied onslaught.

A decree of doom for Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's hastily- gathered army and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's veteran Afrika corps would be dictated by these necessities!

1. An attempt to delay the al- lied mopping-up of North Africa to the last minute, taking the heaviest toll in the hope of gain- ing time against the inevitable in- vasion of the continent.

2. The need to husband what is left of the Italian war fleet against invasion day, rather than risk the extreme losses that powerful allied air and sea con- centrations might inflict on cover- ing vessels as well as any evacua- tion fleet.

Reports reaching here from Bern indicate Hitler already may have given Marshal Rommel or- ders to hold to the last man, but Rommel probably will not be sac- rificed.

These reports indicated Rom- mel would be named commander in chief of the whole southern European coast — which Prime Minister Churchill called the soft underbelly of Europe—and would direct defenses from the Italian shore to Spain.

Ludlum Steel Co. where he con- centrated on the subject of high speed steel and certain chromium steels. He continued this type of work after 1924 at the Union Carbide and Carbon research laboratories, making a compre- hensive study of chromium steels, particularly the stainless steels. As joint author of a paper on the alloys of iron, chromium and nickel with W. E. Griffiths, also an Ohio State alumnus, he was awarded the Robert W. Hunt gold medal in 1929.

Made Laboratory Chief

When the United States Steel research laboratory was estab- lished in 1928 under the director- ship of Dr. John Johnston, Dr. Bain was selected to take charge of the work related particularly to the metal itself. In a seven- year period he helped contribute to solution of a number of long- standing fundamental problems of steel behavior. Under joint au- thorship with a brilliant group of associates, Dr. Bain has pub- lished a number of technical papers, covering some of the basic work of the laboratory.

Dr. Bain is well known abroad for his work in the science of metals. He has made a number of visits abroad and presented technical papers in Sweden, Ger- many and France. In three jour- neys abroad, prior to 1937, he visited the metallurgical labora- tories and steel works of Eng- land, Germany, France, Czecho- Slovakia and Sweden for study. He is a co-inventor of a process of heat treatment of steel in which ordinary carbon steel, in small sections, is endowed with properties approaching those of the finest alloy steels. Early in 1935 Dr. Bain was appointed as- sistant to the vice president of the United States Steel Corp.

Dr. Bain was married in 1927, his wife being the former Helen Louise Crain of Cleveland. They have two children, Alice Ann and David. Dr. Bain's mother makes her home with her son and family, joining them shortly af- ter the death of her husband in 1937. Dr. Bain's last visit to Mar- ion was at the time of his father's death.

He is a nephew of Addison Bain of Wallace street, John H. Bain of Baker street, James Bain of the Delaware pike, Mrs. W. P. LaRue of near LaRue and Mrs. Jennie Wilson of Richwood. Be- fore moving to Pittsburgh several years ago, Dr. Bain and his fam- ily lived in Short Hills, N. J.

SLAIN GIRL REPORTED IN FEAR OF STEWARD

Sheriff Probes New Angle in Death Mystery.

AKRON, O., April 2—County authorities rejected today they were investigating reports that attractive Lucille D'Aprano, slain Kent State university co-ed, had lived in fear of George W. Rey- nolds, 35-year-old Negro ex-con- vict whose body was found with that of the girl in a parked auto- mobile.

Deputy Sheriff Robert L. Smith said an informant, who may be re- fused to identify, had told him the 23-year-old senior student from Cleveland had "begun to fear" Reynolds and thought it wise to become less friendly with him, partly because she was about to embark on a student teaching career.

Miss D'Aprano was employed part time as a waitress at the Twin Lakes country club where Reynolds was steward, and fre- quently was driven into Kent by Reynolds after she finished work at the club, the deputy reported.

Coroner R. E. Ames clung to his original verdict of double murder in the fatal shooting of the student and the steward, while sheriff's deputies contended Miss D'Aprano was slain by Reynolds who then killed himself. Dr. Ames said it still was not clear why there were no bullet holes in the steward's coat although two bul- lets were found in his body. The coat was on Reynolds' body when it was discovered last Tuesday night, he added.

Chicago Potato Jobbers Reject OPA Order

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 2—Jobbers in the Chicago potato market agreed today to reject an OPA ruling regarding the sale of potatoes tagged "seed stock," the market news service of the food distribution administration reported.

As a result of the jobbers' action, retailers in Chicago and possibly in nearby cities faced a potato shortage within a few days, a spokesman for the department of agriculture said.

The FDA reported "Chicago jobbers have agreed not to sign any further statement or affidavit that potatoes tagged seed potatoes are being purchased for planting only, and not for human consumption."

The OPA had ruled such affidavits must be obtained when sales are made to jobbers.

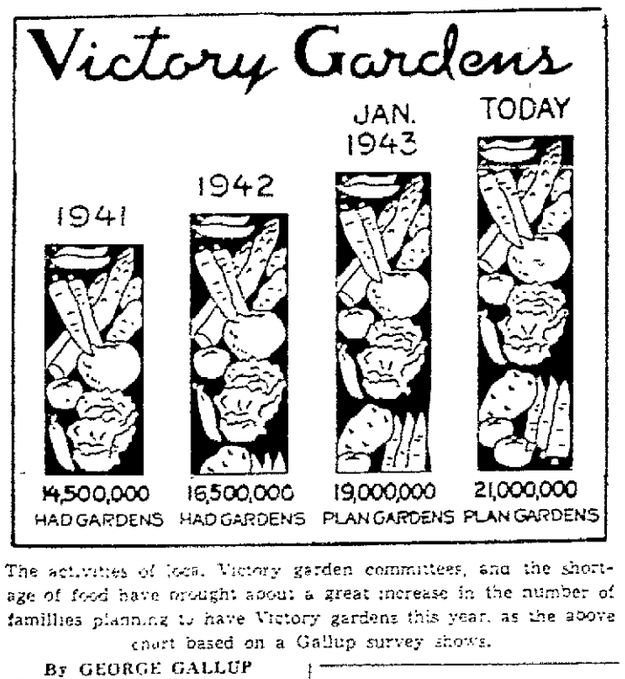
Victory Garden Program Attracts More Followers



The activities of local Victory garden committees, and the shortage of food have brought about a great increase in the number of families planning to have Victory gardens this year, as the above chart based on a Gallup survey shows.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., April 2—The food shortage, and the educational work of local victory garden committees throughout the country, have since January encouraged approximately two million additional families to plan vegetable gardens for home consumption this year.

In January a survey by the Institute showed that 19,000,000 families planned gardens for the spring. Today the number has increased to the point where an estimated total of 21,000,000 families plan to "dig for victory" by laying out garden plots.

This total represents a substantial increase over last year.

7,500,000 Acres

The national acreage to be put to all such gardens this year is estimated, in the basis of the latest Institute survey, at 7,500,000 acres, the equivalent of all land put to crops in the state of Pennsylvania in 1940, or in the state of Arkansas, or Tennessee or New York.

Thanks to the work which local victory garden committees have put on the problem, the total number of gardens this year will probably exceed the 20,000,000-garden goal which the government has been hoping for.

The Institute, through a staff of field reporters in all the 48 states, questioned people in all types of communities to find whether they plan a vegetable garden this spring and whether they had one last year. A similar study was conducted three months ago, and a year ago. From these studies the following facts emerge:

In 1941, 14,500,000 families had vegetable gardens for home consumption. In 1942 the number increased to 16,500,000.

Number Growing

In January of this year, 19,000,000 said they planned to have a garden this spring.

Today 21,000,000 are planning gardens—an increase of 2,000,000 since January and of nearly 7,000,000 since the summer before Pearl Harbor.

According to the survey, the average size of garden plot planned this year in cities of 100,000 or more population will be approximately 500 square feet, or a plot 20 by 25 feet. In towns or cities of 100,000 down to and including rural non-farm areas, gardens will average 40 by 95 feet, or 3,800 square feet. Gardens on farms will run to an average of about half an acre.

The greatest number of victory gardens will be in towns and villages under 10,000 population, the survey indicates. They will account of more than one-third of the total.

Patton Watches Detail Even in Heat of Battle

WITH U. S. FORCES AT GUETAR, TUNISIA, April [illegible]—Even in the height of battle Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. is a stickler for the rules, for he believes the best trained troops are the best fighters.

Technician Kenneth R. [illegible] Buehler, 23, of Garretson, S. D., tells the latest story of the general's passion for detail.

"We were on one observation post and General Patton was [illegible] another a few hundred feet behind us," he related. "Right in the midst of battle a messenger ran up to one lieutenant and said he had a message from him from General Patton.

"'What is the message?' the lieutenant asked, looking a bit pleased and undoubtedly expecting a compliment.

"'The general said for you to put your leggings on,' the messenger replied."

Patton in a general order recently commanded all soldiers in the battle area to wear leggings and helmets.

German Scout Car Runs Either Way

By The Associated Press

WITH U. S. FORCES IN SOUTHERN TUNISIA, April 2—An eight-wheeled German scout car with two front ends—it has a driver aft as well as forward and can speed ahead or in reverse at more than 50 miles an hour—was in the military loot taken by United States forces in their latest push.

After being repaired, the heavily armored scout car and captured light German tanks were road-tested by the Americans before being put back in use on the battlefield with the white star of the Americans painted over the German cross.

Small Garden Plot Worth 2,772 in Ration Points

By The Associated Press

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 2 — A 25-by-30-foot garden plot, properly managed can produce food which would require 2,772 ration points to buy at current rates, Prof. F. G. Helyar of Rutgers university said yesterday.

The chairman of the state victory garden and food conservation committee said such a plot would provide:

Three bushels of tomatoes, or 54 quart jars, 1,461 points; snap beans, one bushel, 16 quarts, 356 points; carrots, one bushel, 18 quarts, 256; beets, one bushel, or 16 quarts, 256 points; lima beans, one bushel, nine quarts, 274 points.

SOLDIER'S LETTER HITS CIVILIAN COMPLAINING

Contrasts Home-Front with Life on African Deserts.

A fighting man's opinion of home-front bellyachers is clearly expressed in a letter recently received from the North Africa front by Earl Foos, a farmer of near Galion.

The letter was written by Lt. Roger Burger of Columbus, a brother of Harvey Burger, chemistry teacher at Claridon high school and formerly superintendent of the Caledonia village school.

Lt. Burger has visited several times in this area and his brother frequently returns to visit friends in the Caledonia school area.

Lt. Burger, commissioned as a navigator in the U. S. Army air corps several months ago, writes: "People in the U. S. A. can't realize what war really is like. I have received several letters from friends complaining of coffee rationing. Yet, over here we have taken complete baths, shaved and had some water left over of one canteen of water. Too, on the desert, for one month I never took my clothes off and never drank a drop of water except that in the tea served at meals once or twice a day."

Ken Keltner, Indian's Third Baseman, Is Training Camp Casualty with Back Injury

Rookie Eddie Turchin To Replace Veteran in Pair of Week-End Games; Gaffke's Run-Out Leaves Only Three Outfielders in Camp.

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 2—Third baseman Ken Keltner was a training camp casualty today as the Cleveland Indians boarded a train for Muncie, Ind., where they will engage the Pittsburgh Pirates in a pair of week-end exhibition games.

Keltner strained a back muscle yesterday when he swung at one of Vernon Kennedy's curves in batting practice session. Trainer Lefty Weisman said the injury would keep him out of the Saturday and Sunday contests with the Pirates. Keltner's place will be taken by Rookie Eddie Turchin.

Pinch Gaffke's decision to quit baseball left the Indians with only three bona fide outfielders for the Pirate series.

Manager Lou Boudreau learned of Gaffke's action yesterday when he found a note saying: "This is a lousy thing to do but it's best and I must do it. When you read this I'll be on my way home. I'm no good for anything but a farm league, playing about once a week. I'm going to work."

Boudreau tried by long distance telephone to change Gaffke's mind but without success. He also phoned news of the outfielder's desertion to Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh with a plea that another fly chaser be obtained at once.

This sent Joe Vosmik's stock booming again. The former Indian is with Minneapolis of the American association. To date the Tribe management has refused to pay more than the waiver price of $7500 for Vosmik.

Boudreau has picked a veteran pitching array to work against the Pirates. Jim Bagby, Al Milnar and Ray Poat will perform in Saturday's game while Chubby Dean, Mel Harder and Al Smith will take the mound Sunday.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 2—General Manager Warren C. Giles, pleased with their present condition, says the Cincinnati Reds have a good chance to challenge the St. Louis Cardinals for the National league pennant.

However, Giles tempered the thought with a reminder that Uncle Sam hasn't called the last ball player to service yet. Johnny Vander Meer, Mike McCormick, and Bert Haas, all regulars, are hardly draft-proof.

Giles also disclosed that Gee Walker, holdout left fielder getting the silent treatment down in Florida, had written asking for a little more money and had been told that the Reds' most recent offer was final.

Devil's Thumb Cracks Hoof; Out of Derby

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 2 — The highly-touted Devil's Thumb, one of the four top favorites for the Kentucky Derby, was declared out of the derby, the Preakness and the Wood Memorial stakes yesterday. Because of a cracked right front foot. The colt is owned by W. E. Boeing, the Flying Fortress manufacturer.

DETROIT RED WINGS CLIP BOSTON 6-2

Now Talk of Four Straight in Stanley Cup Play.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 2—Okay, so those Detroit Red Wings are frisky and fast, but that doesn't entirely explain what happened to the highly-respected Boston Bruins in Olympia stadium last night.

Jack Adams' Red Wings not only defeated Boston in the opening game of the final series for the battered old Stanley cup. They cuffed that feeble old Bruin all around the rink, ran through him for six goals, and generally made a rout of what 12,562 gleeful fans had expected to be a hard, close game. Now they are talking of a Wing victory in four straight games in the best-of-seven series.

Detroit's margin at the end was 6-2, and those six goals constitute the most the Wings have drilled past goalie Frankie Brimsek in 11 meetings this season. Boston scored in the first period, when it was early, and in the third, when it was too late.

Boston was the tired team last night, something the records don't explain. The Bruins had a relatively easy time disposing of Montreal in five games in the semi-finals, while Detroit had to go to six games, two of them overtimes, to turn back Toronto.

An old grudge may have had something to do with the verdict. Boston humiliated Detroit two years ago in the cup finals by sweeping four straight games, a whipping none of the old-timers has forgotten.

The second game will be played here Sunday night.

Yanks Are Thawing Out Slowly, But Joe McCarthy's Not Worried

Year of "Big Freeze" Doesn't Apply to American League Champs.

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Writer

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—The New York Yankees, and Manager Joe McCarthy, in particular, probably will never forget this year of the "big freezes," but if any team in the "Cold Coast League" figures to freeze the American League champs out of the pennant, it had better take another look at the Yanks' pitching staff.

Regardless of whether the other players thaw out here before the opening bell, the hurlers are pumping their arms aplenty, and Marse Joe who won 91 games last year, not to mention two Double A mound artists who were in the win column 38 times.

Yankee fans will probably rub their eyes and think that the story about the St. Louis Cardinals has been mixed up with that of the former Bronx Bombers, but "it ain't so McGee."

Just Talk About Pitchers

If you want to keep McCarthy in a good frame of mind, just talk about his pitchers and forget the calisthenics, basketball, boxing, and what not that has been going for spring training at this breezy resort.

"Regardless of how much the weather may interfere with our training plans," said McCarthy, "the pitchers are getting their daily workouts and I'll match them with any in the league when we get started.

"Look at the earned run averages. There's Bonham with 2.27. He won 21 games while losing five, and with many of the good hitters gone, he should improve this year. And that goes for Borowy, Chandler, Breuer, Murphy and the rest of them."

After listening to the boss from Buffalo, you start checking the Yankees' roster and find that next to Ernie Bonham, Spud Chandler was the most effective hearer winning 16 and losing five with an earned run average of 2.37.

Going down the list, Hank Borowy won 15 and lost four with an earned run average of 2.53. Atley Donald had 11-3 and 3.10; Marv Breuer, 8-0 and 3.07; John Lindell, 2-1 and 3.74; John Murphy, 4-10 and 3.41; Marius Russo, 4-1 and 2.80; and Bill Zuber, formerly of Washington 9-9 and 3.83.

The two rookies, Thomas Byrne from Newark, who has inherited Lefty Gomez' old No. 11, but not his fun-loving ways, had a record of 17-4 and 3.50 last year, while Charlie Wensloff of Kansas City chalked up 21-10 and 2.47.

One Surprise After Another

There have been so many surprises here this year that McCarthy admits he doesn't know what to expect next. "It will probably go that way all season," declared Joe. "But don't give any one the impression that I'm worried. We'll be as good as any of them, and they'll have to beat us to win any pennant."

Tentatively McCarthy is planning to use Nick Etten on first, Joe Gordon at second, rookie George Stirnweiss, the International League's base-stealing sensation at short, and another rookie, also from Newark, Bill Johnson at third. Frank Crosetti may supplant one of the rookies after the 30-day suspension for his world series action is up.

Charley Keller in left will be the only outfielder of the 1942 lineup still roaming the clover, but he will be ably assisted by "Stormy" Weatherly, late of the Cleveland Indians, holding down Joe DiMaggio's old centerfield stamping grounds, and rookie Bud Metheny from Newark in right field. Tuc Stainback will be the utility patroler.

Bill Dickey, starting his seventeenth year, and Rollo Hemsley will again share the backstopping duties with either Aaron Robinson or Ken Sears, if the latter can boil down to playing weight, holding down the third spot.

Favors Armstrong To Win

By SID FEDER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2—Henry Armstrong, the original buzzsaw, and bouncing Beau Jack, the "reasonable facsimile thereof," cut up some old touches—and each other—for ten rounds or less in Madison Square Garden tonight, and it figures to be quite a party.

As a matter of fact, it looks so entertaining Promoter Mike Jacobs expects some 18,000 to see the floor show, which features the return of Hammerin' Hennery to New York for the first time since the "smarties" wrote his obituary after Fritzie Zivic punched him around for the second time about 14 months ago.

The big-hearted betting boys, always willing to share a bankroll with you—providing it's your bankroll—figure the Jumping Jack a 5 to 9 shot to take care of the little brown fighting machine who taught Beau more than one-and-one about the business of busting peaks. But the price-makers aren't nearly as sure now as they were two weeks ago, because they've shaved the odds all the way down from 5 to 17.

This corner likes Armstrong to make a handsome bowl of applesauce simply because Henry is the original buzzsaw and the Jumping Jack is just a good imitation. After a layoff for the better part of a year, Armstrong has won 16 of 18 starts, 11 of them by putting the other guy to sleep.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2—Somewhat encouraged by the success of Henry Armstrong's comeback, Al Weill is thinking of bringing Arturo Godoy back, too—if Al ever can get in touch with the Chilean chopping block. Armstrong was all through, Weill maintains, but Godoy—well, he did all right against Joe Louis, won a couple of fights afterward and recently took the South American title from Alberto Lovell.

Right Over the Plate—During one of the Detroit-Toronto hockey playoff games, Referee Bill Chadwick took an unexpected tumble just on the spot where Bob Davidson had been handed a terrific body check by Jim Orlando looking for the cause of his downfall. Chadwick found part of a set of crockery teeth. Since Davidson denied that they belonged to him, Chadwick is wondering whether some fan had tried to put the bite on him at long range.

Scrap Collection—Beau Jack, who has April-fooled the fight experts more than once, was 22 years old yesterday. Tonight he'll probably get a present from his old friend, Henry Armstrong, a mouth full of leather. . . The Dodgers ban on gambling didn't keep Leo Durocher from betting one of the Brooklyn scribes a $20 hat that he'll play 18 innings at shortstop this week-end. Ted Williams, who has had 40 hours in the air since he joined the Navy, is so enthusiastic over flying that he plans to have his own plane after the war.

Orders Countermanded — When the Fort Hancock, N. Y., baseball team was playing City College the other day, Hoffman, the soldier first baseman, smacked a triple that almost broke a 4-4 tie only to get picked off by the hidden ball gag. . . The boys were wondering if he'd get a week in the guard house for it when Joe Osmanski, the former Holy Cross player, fanned with the bases full to end the game in a tie. . . There was no penalty; Osmanski not only is a Lieutenant but he's coach of the team.

5 COACHES AT NAVY SCHOOL

By The United Press

ATHENS, GA. — Five former college coaches are among the 23 officer-instructors now on duty at the U. S. Navy pre-flight school here. They are Lt. Carl R. (Swede) Anderson, veteran backfield coach at Indiana; Lt. Melvin H. Taube, Purdue football coach and assistant basketball mentor; Lt. Thomas E. McCann, former head football coach at the University of Miami; Lt. (JG) Maurice F. Ostrander, of Minnesota's athletic staff, and Ensign Norvin P. Carter, Kent State's wrestling coach.

WYOMING COWBOYS BEAT ST. JOHNS FOR CAGE LAURELS

Georgetown Stops Toledo U. 54-40 in Consolation Play at New York City.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 2 — The Wyoming Cowboys, national collegiate A. A. U. basketball champions, today boasted another title—champions of the champions of the national invitation tournament.

A crowd of 18,316 which paid approximately $24,000 saw the big boys from the west turn back St. Johns, 52 to 47, in a thrilling overtime game which highlighted the Red Cross benefit twin bill at Madison Square Garden last night. In the other game Georgetown, N. C. A. A. runnerup, defeated Toledo, National Tourney runnerup, 54 to 40.

The game between the champions was anybody's game all the way. The Cowboys led at the half, 30 to 23, thanks to a late scoring splurge by Ken Sailors and Milo Komenich.

Georgetown broke a 27-27 tie late in the first period to take a 35-29 lead over Toledo at the half. Georgetown carried the assault into the second half and ran the count to 43-21 before Toledo could find the range again.

Training Camp Briefs

By The Associated Press

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y.—Manager Leo Durocher, his face as straight as a yardstick, says his Brooklyn Dodgers are further advanced physically now than if they were training in Florida.

"Durability, arms, wind—all are better," he maintains.

The Dodgers haven't missed a single day of practice.

FRENCH LICK, Ind. — Big Paul Derringer has jumped the spring fashion parade by appearing in the new 1943 Cub uniform, a conservative outfit compared with gaudy raiment of the past several years. Paul was allowed to stage the preview because the club did not have an old uniform large enough for him.

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—Wally Moses, White Sox outfielder, and Julius Solters, who hopes to win back his old left field job, have been suffering leg pains and will miss the Sox trip to Louisville this week-end. They have been ordered to stay home and work out the soreness by hiking.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — The Detroit Tigers' cripples rapidly are getting back into shape. Centerfielder Roger Cramer, who has been out with a thumb injury, will be the leadoff batter in the exhibition series with the Cubs this week-end, Manager Steve O'Neill announced. Pitcher Hal White worked out Thursday for the first time since he suffered a back injury a week ago.

CAIRO, Ill. — Catcher Walker Cooper already has been earmarked by Manager Billy Southworth for the fourth spot in the St. Louis Cardinals' batting order. "He's fast, a fine hitter and a natural for the place," says Southworth.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo.—The current worry for Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns is pitcher Bob Muncrief, who reported a sore arm after a three-inning workout. That news, however, partly was offset by the four innings of hitless pitching turned in yesterday by Fritz Ostermueller and the encouraging performance of Paul Dean.

Call of the Draft Poses New Problem for Coach Vic Dorris

"A [illegible] and wait" as [illegible] has been and [illegible] for months to come [illegible] of Harding's football years Vic Dorris.

This particular instance, pertains to war and specifically, the [illegible] which [illegible] next year, Lawrence Daly [illegible] presently [illegible] Daly, however, has very [illegible] only until the [illegible] Then that [illegible] Dorris and [illegible] are [illegible] they [illegible]

Daly [illegible] done a large [illegible] the ball carrying [illegible] addition to some [illegible] and perhaps a little passing last year he did not see a great deal of action but he has developed well and Dorris could have made him a sure starter.

Others Going, Too

Moreover the speedy Daly is not the only probable Harding loss to the armed services. Marion Price who only recently came out for varsity practice, has been counted on to play a lot of guard for the team. Price is 17 but will be ready draft bait next August when he hits the 18 mark. Price started a few games last fall at guard and showed fine and scrap in every contest in which he appeared.

Frank Loucks who won a letter last year is one more headache to Dorris and his assistant Joe Perrico. Loucks would have been a sure bet to be at a post come the 1943 campaign has not as yet been out current workouts at the Loucks will turn 18 next and it is not likely he around much after that.

Captain Only 16

Aside from these three key the Presidents' ranks shape fairly well. Captain Fazio is 16 and will be in at tackle year, his second season as a far varsity lineman. Stu Y is another draft-free gridder, ing only 16. This junior is for one of the backfield post. Other possible regulars suffi ly far away from 18 are Jack Beam, Vernol Orth, Loren Jack Koeppen and Elvin Bet

Dorris said at a recent practice session in an explanation of football prospects. "The loss Daly, Price, and Loucks will us hard next year but we still carry on as well as can."

LOOKS LIKE FRISCH'S BUCS LAYING TRAP

In Two Games They Score 24 Runs to 0.

By The Associated Press

MUNCIE, Ind., April 2—There a suspicion that "Onkle Frank" Frisch's 1943 Pittsburgh Pirates are cooking up an old-fashioned scuttling act against the seven other National league entries this season.

The optimism is not the mere outgrowth of the Buccaneers having scored 24 runs to nine for the two opponents they encountered so far. The team the Pirates beat were the Ball State Teachers nine and a Ball factory array.

The pitching staff does it. Foremost is Truett (Rip) Sewell who in compiling 17 noteworthy triumphs last year had to take 15 beatings.

Then there's Johnny Lanning who won six and lost eight; Max Butcher who took five and dropped eight; Lloyd Dietz, a six and 9 man; Bob Klinger with an 8 and 11 record in '42 and Hank Gornicki, winner of five and loser of six. And there's a 34-year-old "youngster" Frisch regards highly—Wally Hebert—who averaged 12 wins a season for the past several campaigns with San Diego of the Pacific Coast league.

Gardens To Replace Golfing Divot Diggers

By International News Service

CINCINNATI, O., April 2—A quick jump from golf to victory gardens will be provided at the Losantiville Country club this spring where only half of the usual 18 holes of the course will be sports-used, club officials say.

Hole No. 10 is being fenced off to provide a 3½ acre Victory Garden plot, but this improvisation makes the rest of the nine holes in the links valueless for play. The 10th hole was selected for the garden because it is believed to have the best soil.

The gardens will open to the public, with the gardeners gaining access through a cinder path.

Report Italy Prepares Hospitals for Thousands

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 2—A Tass dispatch from Lausanne, Switzerland, broadcast yesterday by the Moscow radio, said concentrations of transport and hospital ships and railway trains has been observed in ports of southern Italy.

"There is every indication that Italian authorities are preparing for mass evacuation of axis troops from Tunisia," the dispatch said.

It said also hospitals which would accommodate at least 90,000 patients had been set up in Naples, according to Italian reports.

COMPETITIVE SPORTS PLANNED FOR STUDENTS

Programs Mapped for Soldiers in Colleges.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Competitive team sports, limited only by the available equipment and interest of students themselves, are planned for soldiers attending colleges under the Army specialized training program.

Announcing this yesterday, the war department reiterated, however, that the soldiers "will not have time to train for, or to participate in, any intercollegiate sports competition."

Coaches at many of the schools had hoped that the soldier-students would be available for varsity sports as a means of building up teams depleted by the war.

Physical training directors and instructors at the schools, the department said, have received recommendations that "as a means of inculcating a will to win, competitive team sports such as soccer, speed ball, touch football, modified football, basketball, volley ball and baseball be strongly encouraged."

As soon as such competitive teams can be organized it is expected the soldier students will devote much of their Saturday afternoon free time to intra-mural contests.

3-A FOR FATHERS ONLY CONSIDERED

Plan Calls for Putting Childless Men in 1-A.

WASHINGTON, April 2—Informed sources said yesterday elimination of the new draft classification—putting all childless married men into 1-A and reserving 3-A ratings exclusively for fathers—is under serious consideration.

These sources, declining to be quoted by name, said the proposal probably would be discussed with state selective service directors at the conference here next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The revision under contemplation, they added, also includes provision that occupational deferments be retained for men, regardless of their dependency status, who are individually essential to essential activities, and that a new classification be created for deferment of those whose induction would work undue hardship on their dependents.

In any case, arrangements are expected to be made for lifting the ban against the drafting of fathers whose children are accountable as dependents, since officials in many states have reported they would have to start calling these men about July in order to meet quotas.

At present, childless married men are lumped with fathers in the 3-A and 3-B classifications. Those engaged in any capacity in the essential activities generally are put in 3-B, while those in other activities are placed in 3-A.

DISTILLERS FAVOR LIQUOR RATIONING FOR OHIO

Declare Getting Fair Share of Liquor Supply.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 2—Representatives of distilleries supplying 75 per cent of Ohio's whisky, asserting the state was receiving an equitable share of liquor, unanimously agreed yesterday Ohio should invoke a liquor rationing program without delay.

"I don't see any other way out," said E. F. O'Brien, vice president of Franklin Distilleries, Inc., spokesman for the group.

The 15 representatives agreed that any possibility for a holiday in the distillery industry's 100 per cent production of war alcohol to build up whisky supplies was remote.

O'Brien cited figures showing that as of last Nov. 1 America's distilleries had in reserve 487,550,395 gallons of liquor. Another representative said the national consumption of liquor last October was approximately 150,000,000 gallons a year.

"We have a definite ration plan in mind," Don A. Fisher, state liquor director, said. He indicated the program would be applied directly legislation authorizing it is passed.

The distillery men said whisky allotments were based on a mathematical formula under which both monopoly and so-called open states receive identical percentages of their 1942 purchases from the respective distillers.

Gov. Bricker, who presided at the conference, told the distillers that "we want Ohio taken care of, just as other states are taken care of."

A Peek at A Jeep

PEEP-JEEP mistaken identity is cleared up in this way by Cp soldier newspaper of Ft. Knox, Ky. A peep, just 2,800 pounds, is a son of a jeep—which weighs 9,300 pounds.

By H. W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

FORT KNOX, Ky.—If it hadn't been for a library book fund, the most widely used small car, the Army Peep, might never have been invented. (Here at Fort Knox, headquarters of the Armored Force, where the car was perfected, the name is Peep [not a jeep] if you wish to stay healthy.)

In 1937 the library book fund at Fort Benning, Ga., plus $150 of his own money, enabled Col. Robert G. Howie to get together the first Peep. It was then the Howie Carrier, made to meet a new phase of war, the increased use of automatic weapons. The Carrier's job was to take the automatics across country.

The Peep is the first small car to have a four-wheel-drive. The engine drives front wheels as well as rear if you like, Col. Howie says the Peep can do 40 miles a gallon on highways, but only 25 or 30 cross-country.

It really goes over ploughed field and mud holes, and up steeps. In these parts, in a big car, in hard going, something goes past you sounding like an airplane. You crane your neck out looking up and a cloud of dust rises into your face. You look down and see that it was a Peep, top down, scooting around to get ahead of you.

Many Private Fliers May Lose Licenses

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Many holders of private pilot licenses who do not own their own airplanes may lose their permits, a civil aeronautics official said yesterday, under a plane rental restriction now beginning to be felt.

This official, who withheld use of his name, explained the holder of a private license must show he made at least five takeoffs and five landings during the six months preceding his application for renewal. Additional flying is required for holders of higher rated licenses.

The war production board issued an order Jan. 26 prohibiting the sale, leasing, renting, giving away or delivering of single-engine airplanes of less than 500 horsepower except through the CAA or with permission of the WPB.

The effect of this order as interpreted in the aviation field is virtually to halt so-called pleasure flying and private student instruction.

MT. GILEAD, April 2—About 600 boys and girls in the Morrow county school system have signed up to participate in the 4-H program this year under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. M. R. Frey.

Public Health Group Elects in Crawford Co.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 2 — H. E. Kleas was reelected president of the Crawford County Public Health council Wednesday night in Farmers and Citizens bank.

Included in the plans for the year was a county tuberculosis clinic to be established and operated with funds from the council's $3,505 balance, which includes receipts of the tuberculosis seals at Christmas.

A committee headed by Miss Gretchen Darlington was appointed to promote the clinic in the parent-teacher groups. Others on the committee are Mrs. Edgar Hieber of Lykens and Mrs. Fabian LaLonde of Leesville.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Evelyn Eusey of Galion, vice president; John P. Wyer, treasurer and Mrs. Edith Gosser of Crestline, secretary.

Rowland R. Peters was named as delegate to the state session in Columbus.

The annual report of the treasurer showed seal sale receipts of $1,776.96 and a balance of $2,597.42.

The teamsters' program to speed the war effort will be discussed, along with reports from legislative bodies and a brief outline of the new ration board setup.

Charles Parshall, state utilities commission inspector, will give a talk on safety and Mr. Martin will speak on the war manpower committee for the Marion area. A speaker from the office of the secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor is expected.

PROFIT TAKERS CHECK PRICES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 2—Profit takers were more insistent in today's stock market and prices generally turned downward for the first time in ten successive sessions.

Rails and scattered industrials did fairly well at the start but most of the buoyant carriers of Thursday eventually went into reverse.

Wall Street, while still encouraged by the war news and economic factors, was a trifle bearish over the immediate market outlook.

Bonds were mixed. Commodities dipped.

Backward stocks included New York Central, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Kennecott, Oliver Farm and Boeing.

BANKHEAD BILL VETO UNSETTLES MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 2 — Presidential veto of the Bankhead bill unsettled grain trading today, but the market showed no tendency to break on the action. The veto was expected during early trading and when the news confirmed previous rumors prices tended to move higher.

Wheat was down about a cent in the first hour on selling by local traders. When the news of the veto failed to bring in much selling, however, traders joined with commission houses on the buying side and the bread cereal rallied from the day's lows. Other grains followed wheat.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I CONSIDERED for several seconds before I answered Olga's query, for I felt that I did not know the answer myself.

"I think that is putting it too strongly," I hedged at last. "Frankly, I do not think Georges is the Sydney Carton type."

"But Georges, not that way, Darcy," Olga struck in flippantly. "In Georges' case absence would make the heart grow fonder of the other girl, never at all."

"Thank you, Darcy," I said gravely. "You have put it much better than I could. No, Olga, I do not think Georges has been in love with Mary, and I am sure he is not now attracted to her."

"Not now, perhaps," she said. "Mary took good care of that, bless her! But when he met Mary in your apartment this afternoon, was he not strongly attracted to her, and did he not show that so plainly that neither you nor Mary could fail to recognize his feelings?"

"Yes, and no, Olga," I told her. "Anyone not knowing him well would have thought that in my husband's atrocious phraseology—"

"That he was carrying the torch again for Mary, with some extra flame effects," he said. "Is that what you mean?"

"Virtually," I told him. "But Mary and I agreed afterward that while undoubtedly he was intrigued a bit on meeting her again, his flamboyant words meant nothing, and that when he saw Olga again, he would forget Mary."

Olga looked at me fixedly, then shook her head slowly.

"You are being very kind and thoughtful, my dear Madge, and I am grateful for your delicacy, but—it won't do. It doesn't explain why Mary's behavior tonight was so infinitely foreign to her. Please tell me the rest."

I drew a long breath and faced the music.

"First, I want to tell you that I believe firmly that Georges is not seriously interested in Mary. However, I pointed out to Mary that if Georges came to this party in the mood he showed that afternoon, when he was out" [illegible] "indifferent on the subject of Noel's permitting his wife to associate publicly with a 'socialite like Redfield' to quote her exactly—"

"Why—why—" Philip Vertiver spluttered excitedly.

"I was afraid that he might [illegible] Mary," I said, "and angel that, by paying attention to her, as I asked Mary if she could not turn off her charm and appear dense and uninteresting. She agreed, and 'wore an unbecoming gown,' like amusing Noel's restaurant who wished her to be the outstanding figure at the party."

Philip nodded his head, as if confirming the hint in Noel, and Olga gave a sudden understanding [illegible]

"The clever trait" he exclaimed. "She scheduled plans on you, knowing that while Georges might be puzzled and intrigued by the silent pose, he would be repelled and even disgusted by her all-out attack on him."

"An exceedingly skillful portrayal," Philip Vertiver said. "She is an actress."

But Olga's insight was deeper.

"What that must have cost Mary!" she said.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Nervous Dyspeptics

On the subject of dyspepsia this week we have already considered the gaseous type of dyspepsia and the secretory type. Today I want to discuss the purely functional dyspepsia.

"He is a nervous dyspeptic." That label hung on a person is a lifelong nickname. It means, of course, that the person is uncomfortable because he worries about his digestion, and when he begins to worry about it he always makes it worse.

There are some mechanisms of this universe that should be turned over to Almighty God. In the body these are the automatic things that happen whether you will them to or not. You can move a muscle voluntarily, you can focus your eyes on some print voluntarily, but by taking all the thought in the world you can't make the last few inches of your intestine move and, equally, you can't make it stay still.

If you begin to worry about your watch and wind it every five minutes and shake it and bang it on the window sill, you will eventually get the watch really out of order. The same thing applies to your digestive apparatus.

Of course, every once in a while some nervous dyspeptic turns up and fools everybody by having a serious organic disease like cancer or gallstones; but if he has been having dyspepsia for 20 years, he usually deserves the label "nervous dyspeptic." He is always taking pills; he is always going on a diet; he likes such fads as the compatible diet; he is always having his stomach pumped, and in the meanwhile he looks in the best of health—except for the woebegone expression on his face—and maintains his weight and general activity.

I once had a patient on whom I tried every known treatment for dyspepsia and finally she told me that when she was a little girl her father had dyspepsia all his life and her earliest recollection was that at mealtimes she had to go to the sideboard and get him a pink pill before meals and then go after meals and bring him a blue pill. Naturally she was obsessed with the idea that her digestion was weaker than other people's. We were able to take her out of it.

These people often have some sort of associated anatomical changes which may or may not explain their condition. For instance, they often have a dropped stomach. But other people have dropped stomachs too and don't have dyspepsia, so I judge that in every case the dyspepsia is more or less functional.

Treatment of these cases should be directed towards clearing up the patient's misconceptions. In other words, it should be psychological. The worst thing to do to them is to give them some kind of physical treatment such as putting them on a diet or giving them massage or putting a corset on them.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, April 3.

WHILE THERE are signs of a fair degree of activity and enterprise on this day, yet affairs generally seem to be beset by subtle, crafty and intriguing forces lying at the root of both business and private achievement and enjoyment. Be alert to plots, deceptions and indiscretions. The emotions may be found under peculiar urges, with chaotic reactions.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly moderate year, although there are strange and curious circumstances to manipulate with sanity and discretion. Intrigues, plots, peculiar or eccentric encounters may be perplexing, and as the emotions are subject to subtle and perculiar stimuli, it is urged that stability and reason govern the behavior.

A child born on this day, while energetic, versatile and constructive, may suffer from fraud, imposition or its own indiscretions or eccentricities.

Fight the Ants in Your Plants

Associated Press Features

A good garden general of the Victory Garden front knows a fifth columnist, such as a grub or a thrip, when he sees one.

The best way to thwart fifth columnists is to choose Victory Garden soldiers—the beans, the carrots, and the cabbages you plant—from among the disease-resistant varieties.

Insects are divided into two classes, according to the manner in which they dine. There are the biting insects and bugs, such as caterpillars, beetles, grasshoppers and grubs that feed by biting, chewing and swallowing parts of the plant. They may be exterminated by spraying poisons that kill when they reach the fifth columnist's stomachs.

Then there are the sucking pests, such as plant lice, thrips and leafhoppers that have a tubular beak which they stick into a plant and suck juices from under the surface. They must be killed by poisons that are deadly when the insect comes into contact with them.

A caution: Such plants as beans and tomatoes should not be sprayed after the edible parts have formed.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

All the safeguards which the ingenuity of our War Staff can devise are thrown about our troop transports. Hundreds of ships, loaded with thousands of men are being moved overseas to distant battle fronts. And when our boys step aboard transport ships their pay steps up 20 percent. War Bonds and War Taxes must provide that pay.

If you thought your purchase of an extra War Bond would save the life of one of these boys, you'd do it wouldn't you? And it is your War Bond purchases which gives them the equipment to win a victory for Freedom. Buy that extra Bond. "You've Done Your Bit, Now Do Your Best."

No Rationing For Grunts and Groans

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O.—As the line of consumers filed into Memorial hall, an OPA official asked each person:

"No. 1 or No. 2 book?"

One man stood for a moment in the doorway, perplexed.

"Is this rationing?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the official.

"Yipe!" exclaimed the "consumer." "I thought it was a wrestling match!"
